ail and farewell. This is our last bidzine. When next you see us, it will be in the guise of a Progress Report.

As many of you have probably already heard, it appears that Orlando will win the 1992 Worldcon by default. Noreascon has released the site selection ballots, as you will see from the enclosed example, with the word "WITHDRAWN" printed over our competitor's listing.

To quote from a letter sent to all Discon III Presupporters - "... at the April 19 meeting of the DISCON III Corporation our hotel liaison group reported to the membership that the Sheraton Washington Hotel had signed a contract with another group that significantly reduced our sleeping room and function space blocks in that hotel on Sunday and Monday of the 1992 Labor Day weekend. After a long discussion, the Corporation members reluctantly voted to withdraw our bid for hosting the 1992 WORLDCON."

This is not the way we would have liked the Worldcon contest to go. What happened to D.C. could have just as easily happened to us. We want to make it clear that we do not intend to take our win for granted. We will still be continuing our bidding efforts. In particular, we are planning some new surprises at Noreascon.

This does not mean that it is no longer important for you to vote for the site selection. As the Discon committee said in their letter: "Before our withdrawal, there were predictions that a record number of people would vote in the site selection this year. Even though there is only one active bid remaining in the race, we hope that this will still be the case. There are a number of reasons why you should still vote. First, voting makes it your convention right from the start - your vote says "This is who I want to run my Worldcon." Second, your voting fee provides the start-up money needed for the con committee to begin putting together your convention. Finally, by voting you have the option of converting your automatic supporting membership to a full attending membership... at the lowest rate available."

We want to thank you for the unprecedented level of support. As we write this Editorial we have 1,929 Presupporters with more coming in daily. (Only 1,874 show up in the listing, since it was prepared earlier.)

Goodbye, good luck, and we hope to see all of you at Noreascon. Get out there and vote.

Presupporters List prepared by
S. Cole & D. Ratti

Andre Norton is one of the most important writers in the SF field. Her juvenile and young adult stories are full of the excitement, exploration, and sense of wonder that is science fiction and fantasy. She has probably introduced more readers to the field than anyone in the genre. As a full member of the MagiCon committee, we are extremely pleased that Andre is the Guest of Honor at Noreascon III. It is an honor richly deserved and long overdue.

During her long career, Andre has introduced and helped further the careers of numerous budding writers. In recent years, her most popular creation, the Witch World, has been the fertile ground for stories by many writers, new and established. Here is a short essay describing Andre's reasons for sharing her world with other writers. - Joe Siclari

Sharing the Witch World

by Andre Norton

As I have said elsewhere Witch World never was conceived to be more than a one volume book, a fragment of which had been originally jotted down for a historical novel which never came into being. However, there seems to be that about Witch World itself which continued to draw both the writer and readers—the latter, judging by letters received, eager to know more and more.

First there was the eastern continent comprising Estcarp, Escore, and the traditional enemies, Karsten and Alizon. Then, out of nowhere there arrived the first adventure in High Hallack to the west—Year of the Unicorn. This was also the first to have a female protagonist, and, though it was not warmly welcomed by male readers, women greeted it with enthusiasm.

However, more and more letters brought questions as well as suggestions for new adventures of favorite characters. The first sharing and building of such a tale was with Ann Crispin whose collaboration in Gryphon's Eyrie was, to my mind, a widening and enriching experience. Nor were either of us satisfied to allow our characters to remain mute at the end of that adventure. The idea of Songsmith, carrying on into a second generation, developed before the last word of the first work was set on paper.

Unfortunately, other commitments faced both of us and we did not get much farther than an introduction and a somewhat vague outline of following events. Though now we hope to have the tale finished by the end of this present year.

Though Songsmith might be de-laid, two other volumes wrote themselves out for me alone and I also conceived the idea of asking fellow wordsmiths, whose work I admired and thought sympathetic to my own ideas of fantasy, to contribute short stories for what was to be four volumes of "Tales". Two of these collections have already appeared. For the first two stories in volume one a meeting with Robert Bloch was responsible. We discussed and decided upon doing two versions of the same plot, one to be seen through the eyes of accepted "good" and the other "evil". This experiment intrigued us both.

But with the putting together of the volume which was slated to be number three in the series a change was suggested by the editor. The manuscripts selected were four, all of novelette length and of fine character drawing and excellent plotting. Thus this book has been lifted out of the series and will be published this year as Four From Witch World. There will remain a third volume still of the Tales.

I was and am so enthusiastic about these new dimensions and enlarging of Witch World by these other writers that a firmer belief in the existence of another sphere into which others than myself can now venture has grown. Now, I am eager to learn more about what may lie within the dales, beyond the mountains, in strange seas where even the Sulcars have not ventured very far.

Thus five of us, Pauline Griffin, Mary Schaub, Patricia Mathews, Sasha Miller and I are busy on a new project—The Chronicles of Lormt (Witch World). Lormt, that depository of knowledge (though there must have been much lost as parchments crumbled into dust and books left to rot for centuries surely hold a treasury of adventures, each more exciting than the last.

The second turning of the mountains (which brought about an end to that Witch rule that had begun to strangle Estcarp into deep decline in the latter days) by exhausting the witch power—killing many of those using it, marked really the end of an era, a long stretch of history when time and change had been held at bay. What had happened, is happening now, that the way things had long been were changing? What of the Dark now arising anew in Escore? Of other menacing manifestations in the Dales, and Arvon? Who will rule in Karsten? And what of Alzion licking her wounds after the defeat in the Dales?

What of those dales exhausted, bled white of manpower by the long war? Does Alzion still dare to threaten southward? Will Karsten remain long in the chaos to which Pagan's death plunged that country?

There are such separate groups as the Falconers—the Sulcars. Sanctuaries such as the Eyrie and the safe ports are gone. How do those who once knew them fare?

This is a period of drastic change, of a need for new leaders able to seek other goals and the methods for reaching them. Witch World is no longer the same and the changes will bring pain and strife.

We are choosing in the Chronicles to picture these changes. Not as they may cover some great area or sections of nations but as the alteration of life comes to handfuls of people plucked out of their normal ways of being and set to actions they are not always prepared to accept.

I believe that the Chronicles (which is a wide undertaking since it will consist of three volumes, each of which will contain two full books, as well as parts of a running story to tie them all together) will awaken a whole new assessment of this other release. These will present Witch World from several new points of view and open more vistas for exploration and imagination.

To me is left the pleasure of knowing that my world has now become enriched and expanded through the efforts of others of whose embellishments I am often envious and for which I am delighted.

To those who have willingly, and with real interest and concern, added to the portraying of characters, have expanded maps, advanced new causes and ventures, I am grateful. For me they have glorified a history which I am sure somewhere is real. They have truly shared.

How To Vote

by Judy Bemis

Worldcon sites are chosen by members of the current Worldcon. Voting takes place three years in advance. For the 1992 Worldcon, the decision will be made at Noreascon 3, to be held in Boston over Labor Day weekend this year.

To vote for the site for 1992, you must first join Noreascon 3. There are two types of membership. A supporting membership, available for $20 until 07/15/89, allows voting for the Hugo awards and site selection, and entitles the member to receive by mail all generally distributed publications. An attending membership, available for $80 until 07/15/89 ($110 at the door), also includes the right to attend Noreascon 3.

Site selection voters must pay a voting fee, in addition to the membership fee for the current Worldcon. All those who vote automatically receive 1992 Worldcon supporting memberships.

Your supporting membership can be converted to an attending membership by paying a $20 conversion fee. Initial rates for non-voters will be $50 attending and $20 supporting.

All MagiCon pre-supporters will receive a $5 discount on their attending memberships. Thus, pre-supporters who vote will be offered the lowest attending membership rate. These rates will be valid at least through 12/31/89.

Summary:

- If you are already a member of Noreascon 3, send a $20 voting fee with your ballot, OR
- If you are not a member of Noreascon 3, send the $20 voting fee with your ballot and $20 for a supporting membership. (Or more, if you plan to attend.)

We hope all of you will vote this year. For your convenience, we have included a site selection ballot this issue of the TOHO.

Finally it can be revealed! The secret formulas for the famous MagiCon Wizard Punch and Apprentice Punch. Seriously, we've had a lot of requests for these recipes, so we figured we'd let all of our presupporters in on the secret. It was your gracious support that made this whole bid possible. Enjoy!

An Informal Interview With
Orlando in '92 Committee Member
Melanie Herz

Interviewed at OASIS II, by Becky Thomson

BT: How did you first get interested in science fiction?

MH: Living in Melbourne, Florida, 40 miles from Cape Kennedy, I was interested in science and space, and that's what got me into the genre. I started out with movies and TV.

BT: So your interest in science led you to science fiction. Does that mean that you concentrate more on hard science fiction than other areas of SF?

MH: No, I like fantasy, too. I started out being very media oriented, but as I've been attending a lot of SF cons I've come to appreciate the literary side much more.

BT: How did you start attending SF cons?

MH: I went to my first convention, a DeepSouthCon, with Ray, back before we were married.

BT: What did you think of it?

MH: The fact that it was my first convention made me feel awed by the number of people. I was a complete neo and didn't understand a lot of what was going on. But it was interesting, particularly because I felt accepted by the people there. That was the best thing.

BT: How many conventions have you attended since then?

MH: Since 1978, over 50. But that counts the one-dayers and such. Last year alone I went to 8 cons.

BT: When did you start working on conventions?

MH: I worked on the registration staff for Atlanta Fantasy Fair in 1983 and 1985. Even before that, I worked and sometimes chaired registration from 1980 to 1984 for regional and state coin collection events.

BT: Since you've been involved in the MagiCon bid, you've worked on many more conventions, haven't you?

MH: I've worked in the con suite for two Tropicons, and chaired two OASIS hospitality suites. This December, I'll be co-chairing the hospitality suite for Tropicon. But at most of the conventions that I've traveled to for the past three years, I've concentrated on bid activities, bid parties, and sales tables. I did have a staff badge to work registration at Nolacon, but I was never able to get out of the MagiCon party suite!

BT: What do you do when you're not being a fan?

MH: I'm a secretary for a defence contractor. Right now I'm working on getting my B.S./B.A in business, and will graduate (after nine long years) in December.

BT: Now that it looks very good that the Orlando bid will win, have you thought about what area you would like to work in at MagiCon?

MH: Since my professional job is disseminating information, and since I know the Orlando area well, I think I would be best suited working in the attendee services area, such as the information booth. Of course, there's also the hospitality suite, but I'm not sure I want to run a con suite for 6,000 people. Which reminds me, I hate to be interviewed and run, but I have to get back to the con suite.

A Biographical Sketch of Co-Chairman Joseph D. Siclari

Based on an Interview by Judy Bemis
Edited by Becky Thomson

Joe Siclari has been active in science fiction fandom for almost 25 years. His interests span the genre, including SF and fantasy literature, fanzines, SF radio shows, films, television and the history of fandom.

Like most of us, Joe started reading SF in early childhood. He learned about fandom through the professional SF magazines, and developed a special interest in fan pubbing. While in college he became a contributor of articles, reviews, and LoCs to a variety of fanzines. He put out unterHelios, his first fanzine, in 1970 and in 1978 he published Harry Warner, Jr.'s book about 1950's fandom, A Wealth of Fable. Joe also irregularly publishes Fanhistorica, a fanzine dedicated to SF fandom and its history.

Also while at Florida State University, Joe took advantage of his position as box office manager of the Student Union to begin a film program centering on science fiction, fantasy and horror. This grew to huge proportions, showing over 500 feature films each year and helping to bring University SF fans together.

Joe's fannish activity increased after he moved from Florida to New York City, where he became a member of the Fanoclasts, began attending FISTFA and Lunarians meetings, and started working at Lunacons. He attended his first convention in 1971 and his first Worldcon in 1972. Since then, he has worked in some capacity on over 60 cons, including nearly every Worldcon and/or NASFiC since MidAmeriCon in 1976.

After meeting Don Lundry at the 1975 Lunacon and agreeing to help with the 1977 Worldcon, Joe became increasingly involved in the reconciliation of SunCon's organizational problems. He eventually found himself running the Programming Division as well as holding down the position of Publications Editor. He even temporarily filled in as the convention's Treasurer.

Joe's involvement with ConFederation began while he was Fan Guest of Honor at ASFICON in 1981, when he endorsed the idea of a 1986 Worldcon bid in hopes that it would help activate Southern fandom as well as unify Atlanta's local fannish community. When the bid committee was formed Joe became Strategy Coordinator, working heavily with publications. He was Director of the Programming Division and a Board Member for the convention itself.

Meanwhile, Joe had become instrumental in organizing and activating local fandom in southern Florida. In 1978 Joe founded an informal social/party club, "Coral Springs Science Fiction League, Social Drinking Society, and Traveling Fan-Variety Show" (CSpSFLSDS, aka "Cups Full of Suds"). In response to this group's rapid growth in size and interests, Joe founded the South Florida Science Fiction Society in 1985, which he chaired for the next two years. SFSFS has grown into a substantial organization with a monthly newsletter and several special interest committees.

Joe is also responsible for founding the annual SF convention in South Florida, Tropiccon. Joe organized the first Tropiccon in cooperation with Florida Atlantic University's "Conference on the Fantastic in the Arts" in 1981, but the convention is now a project of SFSFS. Joe chaired the first four Tropiccons.

Joe met Becky Thomson at the 1985 Tropiccon and they discussed in passing the concept of an Orlando Worldcon. Becky began investigating facilities and laying the initial ground work for the bid while Joe was occupied with his ConFederation duties, and Joe joined the Orlando in '92 bid committee as Co-Chairman in early 1987.

Looking back on what the bid committee had to accomplish and how we did it, Joe comments, "One of the first things we needed to do was organize local people plus a network of other experienced fans from outside this area to help run both the bid and the convention. We also wanted to gather wide support and enthusiasm for our bid. To do this, we set up a Strategy Committee with Edie Stern as Chair to come up with fannish, fun ideas. This helped keep our campaign interesting (with ideas like Magic and Apprentice Punch and the Magic Potions). At the same time, we are still producing serious, informative flyers and bidzines, negotiating with facilities, and dealing with the logistic problems that are part of a strong, active bid."

And what ideas does Joe have about the operation of MagiCon? "I like to try new concepts; for example, the way I structured the Program Division of ConFederation to allow more continuity and efficiency. I've heard many fannish complaints that the Worldcon has become too big, and the attendees have trouble finding 'their convention.' In recent years, the Worldcon has become a continuous 7-ring circus. Program items of a similar interest may be scheduled simultaneously or in very different locations. I have an idea, but whether it is practical remains to be seen. It is necessary to have major events - the 'center ring activities' if I may continue the comparison. But I'd like to see if we can design the Worldcon to be more like a conglomerate of small carnivals, each one in effect a small specialized convention with a particular focus: fanzines, space development, media, hard SF, academic, etc. We might try to extend this concept throughout the convention. I hope people will think about this idea and give me their opinions."

The Peabody Orlando: MagiCon's HQ Hotel

by Tom Veal

When Becky Thomson, our bid's intrepid founder, first "inspected" the Peabody Hotel in early 1986, it consisted of a construction trailer, vast mounds of upturned earth and a skeletal network of girders - all in all, somewhat primitive even for a small regional convention, much less a Worldcon.

Happily, the Peabody did not long remain in that condition. By December of the same year, it had metamorphosed into a breathtaking facility that is regularly praised by travel writers as "a tourist attraction in itself". A quick overview shows why.

Location: Ever since "the memory of man runneth not to the contrary", every U.S. Worldcon has been held in the downtown of a major city. The Peabody's site is a refreshing change of pace. It occupies an uncrowded spot on a quiet thoroughfare. There is even a fairly extensive woods in back. The Orange County Convention Center, where we expect to hold most main events, is directly across the street. The crosswalk is protected by a pedestrian-operated traffic signal that, according to our unscientific tests, has an average response time of less than 15 seconds.

Despite its uncluttered setting, the Peabody is not isolated. Orlando International Airport is only 15 minutes away. Inexpensive transport - running directly between airport and hotel without intermediate stops - is available every half hour from early morning until midnight.

For those who want to visit EPCOT (12 minutes away) or the Magic Kingdom (a few minutes farther), the Peabody's shuttle provides unlimited round trips for $6 a day. Sea World is easily reachable via a short ride on the free tram.

Accommodations: The Peabody has 891 guest rooms (including 58 suites). Overflow hotels, described below under "Alternatives", are close by. Over two-thirds of the rooms have two double beds, and square footage is somewhat larger than that of the "typical" contemporary hotel room.

Standard in every room (not just on "concierge" levels) are two telephone lines, remote controlled television, a second television in the bathroom, a hair dryer, a clock radio and a private bar.

The hotel's 25 floors are served by eight elevators, all of which can reach any floor. This is a good floor/elevator ratio, and traffic flow is further eased by the hotel's policy of routing housekeeping, room service and other such activities via the four service elevators. There are also adequate, though unexciting stairways, the doors to which are unlocked at all times, except on the concierge floors.

To speed the most crowded periods of check-in and check-out, a dozen extra front desk positions can be set up in an ancillary registration area. Thus we can minimize the congested lines that have plagued some recent Worldcons.

Amenities: For athletic types, the Peabody has two swimming pools (one double Olympic-sized), four lighted tennis courts and a well-furnished athletic club. More sedentary con-goers can lounge on the gigantic sundeck or spend money at an assortment of gift shops, lounges, etc.

Among the many useful guest services are bonded child care, one-hour photo developing, and on-site agents for Delta Airlines and National Car Rental. Tickets for most area attractions can be purchased at the hotel.

The Peabody even eases the burden of finding your friends in the crowd. Guests can leave a record of where they will be at the front desk, which will then forward messages to the proper location.

Finally, let us not forget the DUCKS. Borrowing a tradition from its elder sister in Memphis, the Peabody keeps a corps of mallards, whose morning and evening parades to and from the lobby fountain are a popular sight.

Food: The Peabody has three restaurants: Dux (superb nouvelle Americaine, though almost as expensive as a comparable establishment in New York or Washington), Capriccio's (reasonably priced Northern Italian, with an elaborate Sunday brunch) and the Beeline Diner. The Beeline will undoubtedly do lots of business during the con. Furnished in a "fifties style" motif (complete with juke box), it is relatively inexpensive, stays open 24 hours a day, and offers carryouts and a generously stocked pastry bar in addition to regular service. Not far away are numerous other eateries in all price ranges featuring a variety of cuisines. For complete details, see our dining guide, Orlando - The Magic Feast.

Meeting space: In addition to providing housing, the Peabody has 54,000 square feet of function space to supplement the Convention Center. Included are a grand ballroom (27,000 sq. ft.), two junior ballrooms (8,000 sq. ft. each) and 18 smaller meeting and function rooms.

Prices: As you might anticipate after this buildup, the Peabody is not a budget hotel. Nevertheless, room rates should be comparable, in inflation-adjusted terms, to recent Worldcons. The hotel management has tentatively quoted prices (in 1992 dollars) that are about the same as what attendees will pay at this year's Worldcon. The final rates may be a bit higher or lower, but, when you take into account the Peabody's quality and amenities, it would be a bargain even if staying there cost considerably more.

Alternatives: Still, we have remembered those fans who need or want less expensive accommodations. We have blocked 1,100 additional rooms at the Clarion Plaza, which is under construction on the lot adjacent to the Convention Center, and the Quality Inn Plaza, next door to the Clarion. Both of these hotels have quoted firm rates for 1992 - under $70 a night at the Clarion and $33 to $37 a night at the Quality Inn. Even in nominal dollars, ignoring inflation, those are the lowest prices that any Worldcon has quoted for decent accommodations in a long, long time. The Clarion aims to compete with the Peabody for convention business - a trifle less fancy but distinctly on the upscale side. Needless to say, the Quality Inn plays in a different league, but it isn't bad. The rooms in our block are mostly in the new wing (closest to the Convention Center) that opened in January 1989.

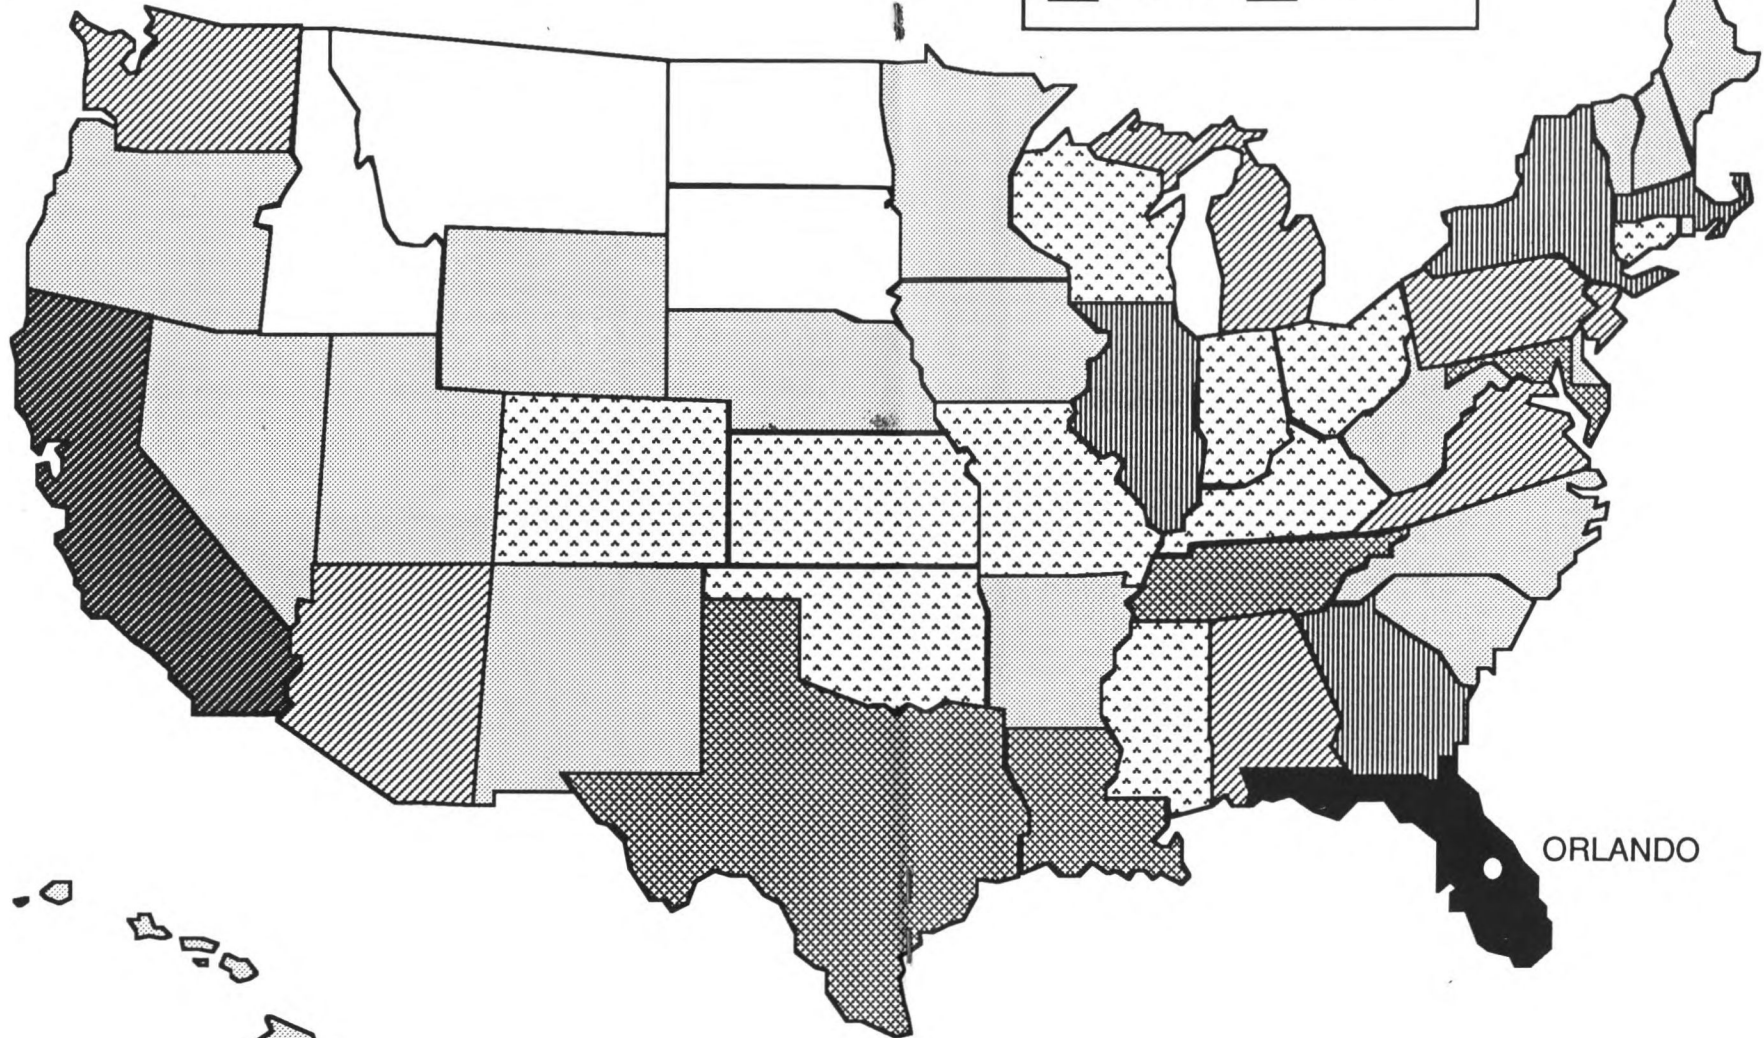

By her own account, Becky "fell in love" with the Peabody when it was just an architect's vision and an inchoate construction site. Now that vision is complete, and we think that you'll love MagiCon's headquarters, too.

An Informal Interview With
Orlando in '92 Treasurer
Susan Cole

Interviewed at OASIS II, by Becky Thomson

BT: How did you get interested in science fiction?

SC: I've always been an inveterate reader; I'll read almost anything. I've read encyclopaedias just for fun. I stumbled upon science fiction in the school library and began reading that when I was about 10 years old, starting with Lester del Rey and the Heinlein juveniles. It didn't seem strange at the time. Science fiction appealed to me. Having been born in Florida, with Cape Kennedy near by, I was aware of the space program at a very early age.

BT: What was your first science fiction convention?

SC: OrangeCon in Orlando in the early 1970's. It was a real bust, and because of that I decided cons weren't something I would be interested in. A few years later my employer sent me to San Jose, and while I was there I picked up a copy of Locus (which I promptly subscribed to), and started reading about cons. When a convention listing appeared for a con in Florida called Galacticon, I decided to go with Dave Ratti (we worked at the same company at the time) and my brother, Andy Williams. We had a wonderful three-day weekend. I came home and told my husband Steve, "This is something we have to get into!" That was in the late 70's.

BT: How many conventions have you attended since then?

SC: I lost count a long time ago. We used to go to two or three a year but now, because of the bid, I've lost count of the number I've attended. My first cons were southern locals and regionals. My first Worldcon was Constellation in 1983.

BT: When did you start working on conventions?

SC: I've been doing a little gophering all along, usually just at-the-con work. I did registration staff work at Cactuscon and OASIS. It's very hard for me to recall that staffing level stuff and keep it straight. It doesn't matter to me what color ribbon I have, as long as I'm being helpful.

BT: Tell me a little bit about what you've been doing for the Orlando in '92 bid.

SC: I'm the current Treasurer, which means I keep the books and pay the bills. I also keep the data file for the presupport list, and I'm handling mail distribution. Before I accepted the Treasurer position, I was chair of the Party Committee. I've run so many bid parties, I have bought a huge amount of booze and gotten acquainted with innumerable liquor stores in all parts of the country, and I don't even drink. That's one reason I invented our Apprentice Punch.

BT: What area might you expect to be working in at MagiCon?

SC: There are several things I would be interested in. I think I would like to be involved in registration, because I have had "fun" keeping track of the presupporters.

BT: Yes, keeping track of our presupport list has been a tremendous task, and you've certainly done a great job. How many presupports do we have now?

SC: As of this moment, almost exactly 1,900.

BT: Ghod, our postage bill for the next bidzine is going to be huge. I'm nearly certain that's an all-time record for number of presupporting members, and we're still five months out from Noreascon. I'd better let you get back to enjoying OASIS. . . you're going to need it!

(Unfortunately, a short time later Susan's employer decided she was too indispensable to be away from the office on a Sunday afternoon, and showed up at OASIS to drag her away - BT.)

L.O.C.s

Greg Bennett
League City, Texas

Dear Becky,

Congratulations on getting your 4th bidzine out! It looks really great! I haven't heard a word from anyone else bidding for 1992; but then, it seems that I've slipped into gafiation in a big way without really intending to.

I'm still working on the space station for McDonnell Douglas - EVA Systems is my game now. I got a promotion in December, but the job didn't change much. With Alex crawling around, I guess I don't have time to do much else besides play with the baby and work.

I realized while reading your bidzine that we're not even members of Noreason yet, so sending a reminder in the bidzine was obviously a great idea!

I can't quite figure out what "Friends of Orlando" is all about. That is, I'd guess it's a negative gives egoboo to folks who already have a horde of the stuff, while disinclining most of the folks who you want to vote for MagiCon. Oh well, elitism is everywhere you look. . .

Greg

(FOO is intended as an advisory committee. I can see your viewpoint, but we aren't just handing egoboo to these good people, we're making them work. Friends of Orlando is not intended to be a booster organization. That would come too close to selling special privileges, something the MagiCon committee is strongly opposed to. B.T.)

At Nolacon, Orlando in '92 held a special drawing for all Presupporters up to that date. The following letters show the results:

TO: Robert W. Gann
Columbus, GA

Dear Robert,

As secretary of MagiCon, the Worldcon bid for Orlando in 1992, I would like to congratulate you on winning our special drawing held at Nolacon. . .

As the winner, you get your choice of free round trip airfare to Orlando or a free room for the length of the convention (not to exceed 4 nights) if our bid wins.

Please let us know your preference.

Judith C. Bemis
Bid Secretary

Judith,

I believe that I will prefer the round trip airfare to Orlando for MagiCon. Exact dates I will send to you sometime in 1990, as I may be in a new job & a new location at that time. I'm not particularly worried about you winning the bid! Best estimate for my place of residence in 1992 is Springfield, Missouri. Looking forward to it. See you in Boston.

Bob Gann,
(MagiCon Presupporter # 1401)

Co-Chairman's Letter

Tom Veal

For those who have not yet heard: MagiCon's prospects in the 1992 Worldcon race improved somewhat in early April, when the opposing bid from Washington, D.C. withdrew, citing the loss of a major portion of its hotel space to another convention. Barring some truly bizarre turn of events (but, of course, the bizarre often seems normal where Worldcons are concerned), the 50th World Science Fiction convention will be held in Orlando over Labor Day weekend, September 3-7, 1992.

We are sorry, of course, that the contest was cut short and sympathize with the plight of the D.C. committee, which saw years of effort nullified by a random stroke of bad luck. We have always looked on our opponents as friendly competitors for the honor of serving fandom, rather than as political enemies. That is one reason why our campaign has concentrated on describing the merits of our city, facilities and committee, rather than denigrating the other side's. While the race was still in progress, the materials issued by the D.C. committee reflected the same spirit. This friendly, positive tone was good for the bid committees, good for fandom and good for the Worldcon.

So, what happens now? First and foremost, we assure you that the MagiCon committee is not going into hibernation. We will continue throwing bid parties and will do our best to keep our nearly 2,000 presupporting members informed on plans for the convention. Three years is none too long a time for getting ready for a Worldcon. Having been given the boon of some extra months, we hope to utilize them effectively.

We also want to emphasize that YOUR VOTE STILL MATTERS. And voting is in your own selfish interests. The least expensive way to buy an attending membership in the 1992 World Science Fiction Convention is to cast a site selection ballot. Your $20 voting fee automatically makes you a supporting member of the Worldcon. Through December 31, 1989, you can convert to an attending membership for only $15 more ($20 if you're not a MagiCon presupporter). If you do not vote on site selection, the cheapest attending membership will cost $45 ($50 for non-presupporters).

To be eligible to vote, you must be a member of this year's Worldcon, Noreascon 3. Information about how to join Noreascon and how to vote appears elsewhere in this bidzine. By the way, even if you aren't able to attend Noreascon, a supporting membership is well worth the price. Not only does it enable you to vote for Orlando, but you will also be eligible to cast a Hugo ballot and to receive the Noreascon program book and other publications, the value of which easily exceeds the $20 cost of membership.

Naturally, we hope that all of you will be able to come Boston and celebrate our - or, rather, your - victory. On to '92!

1992 Site-Selection Ballot

Voting Instructions

1. Fill in the information requested on the other side of this form. You should give the address that you want the winning bidder to have in their files for your convention membership. Your Noreascon Three membership number isn't required, but including it will save us some work; you should find it on your mailing label. If you are not already a Noreascon Three member, you must enclose an additional $20 with your ballot to join as a Supporting Member (or $80 to become an Attending Member), in addition to the voting fee of $20. Checks for Noreascon Three membership should be made payable to "Noreascon Three"; the deadline for new Noreascon Three memberships is July 15, 1989.
2. You must include a voting fee of $20 or the equivalent with this ballot. Checks for the voting fee should be made payable to "The 50th World Science Fiction Convention". The $20 will make you a Supporting Member of the 1992 Worldcon, regardless of who wins. The WSFS Constitution provides that you can convert to an Attending Membership within 90 days after Noreascon Three for no more than an additional $20.
3. Either a) mail this ballot to Noreascon Three; Site Selection; Box 46, MIT Branch PO; Cambridge, MA 02139, USA, by August 15, 1989 (July 15 if you are not already a Noreascon Three member), or b) bring it to Noreascon Three and hand it in at the site-selection table before voting closes at 6 PM Saturday, September 2, 1989.
4. Indicate your vote preferentially below. You should put a "1" by your first choice for the 1992 Worldcon site, a "2" by your second choice, etc. If your first-place choice is eliminated, your ballot will be counted for your second-place choice; if that is also eliminated, for your third-place choice; etc. If you vote first for "No Preference", or if all those you vote for ahead of it are eliminated, your ballot will have no further effect in choosing the 1992 site. "None of the Above" is treated just like a real candidate, except that if it wins, the site-selection decision will be made by the WSFS business meeting at Noreascon Three. If you put some mark next to only one bidder and nothing by the others, you will be counted as having voted for that bidder in first place; if that bidder is eliminated, your ballot will have no further effect on the site selection.

Turn in this ballot with your $20 voting fee at the Site-Selection Voting table at Noreascon Three before 6 PM Saturday, September 2, 1989.

The last two sheets in this ballot package are a questionnaire covering some of the qualifications for running a Worldcon, and the responses of the 1992 Worldcon bidders to this questionnaire and to subsequent phone calls to clarify various points. The questionnaire was based on one developed by Jill Eastlake and sent to the 1981 and 1982 Worldcon bidders during the preparations for Noreascon Two; questions were added by the members of Noreascon Three and developed from the questions other interested people have asked the bidders at Q&A sessions at recent conventions.

Noreascon Three hopes that you will find this information useful in deciding whom to vote for. If you have any additional questions, please talk to representatives of the bids (they will be at many conventions in the coming months), read their advertising in our progress reports, or write to the addresses given at the end of the responses. If you have any ideas for new questions or expansions of questions, please write to Noreascon Three (attn: bidder questionnaire); there is a possibility that we will be asking bidders for future years to respond to these questions.

Just before this ballot mailing went to press (and after Progress Report 6 had gone to press), we received word that the Discon III/Washington committee had lost a significant fraction of their facilities and were therefore withdrawing from bidding. However, the committee requested that their name remain on the ballot. Please take these developments into account in your voting.
