Unicon 21 – Harmuni 3 – BRSCon 2007

a science fiction, fantasy, filk, and roleplaying convention to be held at

New Hall, Cambridge

on

10-12 August 2007

with

Guests of Honour

Jo Walton

Jo won the John W. Campbell Award for best new writer in 2002 and the World Fantasy Award in 2004, for her novel Tooth and Claw, a sentimental Victorian novel about dragons who eat each other. She co-wrote the Celtic Myth sourcebook for GURPS and Warhammer Realms of Sorcery, as well as writing for Arcane magazine and the Into the DC storytelling card games. Her latest novel is Farthing, a WWII alternate history mystery. She is presently working on a direct sequel to Tooth and Claw, an even more direct sequel to Farthing, a version of Mansfield Park set on Mars, and a young adult fantasy about a princess defending a castle from dragons. She treats all these projects, as always, with the seriousness they deserve.

Chris Pramas

Founder of Green Ronin, Chris made his name working on such game lines as Warhammer Fantasy Roleplay, Feng Shui, and Underground. After four years at Wizards of the Coast as a RPG designer, he went full-time with Green Ronin. He has won three Origins Awards and two Ennie Awards for his work. He is best known as the author of the AD&D Guide to Hell, Dragon Fist, Death in Freeport (and its sequels), and most recently as the designer of the acclaimed second edition of Warhammer Fantasy Roleplay.

Ian Watson

Ian became a full-time writer in 1976 following the success of his novels The Embedding and The Jonah Kit. Numerous novels of SF, Fantasy, and Horror followed (including four books set in the Warhammer 40K universe), and nine story collections and a poetry collection. His stories have been finalists for the Hugo and Nebula Awards, and widely anthologised. His latest book is a short story collection, The Butterflies of Memory. He worked with Stanley Kubrick on the movie A.I. Artificial Intelligence, has chaired several cons, and does uncanny impersonations of Inigo Montoya and H.G. Wells.

Franklin Gunkelmann

Franklin Gunkelmann is Harmuni's Guest of Honour. He is an extraordinarily funny and talented musician, always in the thick of it MC-ing and committee-ing at the German filk conventions, and has recently been inducted into the Filk Hall of Fame. We're delighted to have his expressive voice and beautiful piano playing in the limelight at Harmuni.

FROM THE CHAIR

JUDITH PROCTOR

It's a privilege, albeit rather a scary one, to be chair of an Eastercon. So much work and so much responsibility, but also the potential to do so much for the fantastic people I've come to know over the last decade.

It's also great knowing that I've got such a strong team behind me with experience of many Eastercons, Worldcons, Redemptions and other events between them. We've also deliberately brought some new blood, both onto the committee and as committee helpers. It's important to pass on skills to the people we hope will be running events long after we retire.

Initial response to Orbital 2008 has been fantastic. We've well over 300 members (getting close to 400 if you include children, cuddly toys and the remaining pre-supports), and that is a staggering number for a year and a half before the event. We're also delighted that over 200 of you have already made your hotel booking (you can make or modify your hotel booking at any time via our web site), as we get a reduction on the cost of the function space for every hotel room our members occupy. We're already over half-way towards getting all the function space we need and every extra room booking increases the amount of function space we can afford. The lovely large dealers' room that we've been eyeing up is looking more possible with every extra booking. 🌟

THE ORBITAL COMMITTEE

JUDITH PROCTOR - CHAIR

Judith has been the Chair for all of the Redemption conventions, which have been running every two years since 1999. She's also worked as both hotel liaison and guest liaison. Judith is old enough to have discovered that few things in life are as bad as they seem at the time.

VINCE DOCHERTY - TREASURER, FINANCE

Vince chaired both Intersection, the 1995 Worldcon, and Interaction, the 2005 Worldcon. Nuff said.

EDDIE COCHRANE - PUBLICATIONS

As well as being the Head of Ops for all the Redemption conventions, Eddie has been working on Eastercons since, oh, ages ago. He was on the committee for Helicon 1 in 1993, and was a division head on Intersection. He can generally be found in Ops, or in the bar - especially late at night, when Ops is in the bar.

STEVE ROGERSON - PROGRAMME

Steve is a founder Redemption committee member, having worked on all Redemptions, working on Publications, Programme and Publicity. He worked on the Programme team for Interaction. Steve is a keen pool player, real ale drinker and supporter of Shrewsbury Town.

FIONA SCARLETT - MEMBERSHIP

Fiona is a first-time committee member. She worked in the Interaction gopher hole as one of the shift managers (occasionally emerging blinking into the light, to discover a Worldcon happening around her).

MARK YOUNG - DEPUTY CHAIR

Mark has been in fandom since Contrivance in 1989. He was on the committee for Helicon 1 in 1993, working on Programme and Publications. As well as being the Programme Deputy for Helicon 2, he's also worked on most Eastercons and

ORBITAL 2008 – PROGRESS REPORT ONE

Worldcons since in the Ops room, doing everything from shift leader to gophering. Mark keeps trying to organise the Reading SF Group. It never works.

JOHN WILSON - HOTEL LIAISON

John is fairly new to con-running, having worked on the publications team for Interaction, and advertising for the Accio convention.

CHRIS O'SHEA - OPERATIONS, LOGISTICS

Chris is well-known to many UK fans as "The Magician". He's been attending conventions since 1980, and has been working on them since 1983/4 (things are hazy back then...). He's been on the committee for two Eastercons (1990, as publications, and 2004, as co-chair) and worked for several Worldcons. He's done most committee jobs going, including newsletter, ops, artshow, programme, registration, membership, etc. And he's been on the committee for Redemption since it began, back in 1999.

COMMITTEE ASSISTANTS

GASPODE AND RITA – PUBLICITY

Organisers of the Beer & Blakes 7 monthly pub meet. Despite his name, Gaspode is not a small talking dog.

GIULIA DE CESARE - GUEST LIAISON

Giulia was head of programme for Helicon 2, and is part of the Plokta Cabal. She is often found in the dealers room at cons surrounded by beads. Ooh shiny.

STEVE KILBANE - WEB SITE

Steve has been keeping the Redemption committee mostly on schedule for several years now. His interest in and skill with historical fencing has not been needed for this task. Yet.

ALEX HOLDEN – TIMELINE

Alex is one of the organisers of Beyond Cyberdrome, and maintains The Conbledegook File glossary of Eastercon jargon. 🌀

VOLUNTEERING

Like any other Eastercon, Orbital is going to need your help. Although we promise to work the committee to the brink of exhaustion and mental collapse, even they can't do everything—which is where you come in. We need volunteers in a lot of different areas to make the convention run smoothly. Helping out is a great way to meet new people, learn new things, and have a great deal of fun while you're at it.

We need people in the following areas:

- Programme: Lots of work before the convention actually starts, to ensure that there's an excellent and exciting programme for everyone involved. Then making sure that everyone on it knows where they need to be, and when.
- Registration: Making sure that everyone who turns up gets their badge, README and related stuff in an orderly fashion.
- Stewards: making sure that only convention members are in the convention areas, keeping food and drink out of the art show, etc.
- Tech: Lights, sound, and possibly action, too. The tech crew are responsible for the mics, mixing desks, cabling, projectors, and so on that are used during the main hall events such as the opening and closing ceremonies and the masquerade.
- Gophers: General at-con runners, getting information and bits'n'pieces from A to B, whether it's a flip chart, a glass of water, or a committee member.
- Art show: Assembling the art boards, taking them down at the end, bag-check and bid notifications, carrying pieces at the auction that follows, and so on.
- Green room: Where the panellists gather before an item, to plan how the panel's going to go. Green Room staff ensure that each programme participant has a beverage of their choice, and is actually present and correct, on time.
- Newsletter: the at-con publication that carries programme changes, restaurant recommendations, scurrilous rumour and outrageous libel (as long as it's funny...) We need writers and editors to feverishly pound away at collecting the reports and getting each issue out.

"But I've never done this before..."

Don't worry about it. If you're new to eastercons or conventions, helping out is strongly recommended as an excellent way to get involved. There'll be people there who can show you what needs doing and how to do it, and you'll learn something new as well as having a good time. 🌟

GUEST INTRODUCTION

NEIL GAIMAN

BY SUE MASON

Mm, Neil Gaiman...

He's a fabulous, engaging, intelligent author, in whatever medium he chooses to write in. There are any number of critical essays on his work, written by people cleverer than me, go google them.

Neil himself?

He's a terribly nice chap, as fabulous, engaging and intelligent in person as in his writing. He has this cool image, not cool in the trendy, 'hey this is just hip' sort of way but in that way that the really cool people have. But that disguises the fact that he's approachable and pleasant, he's happy to engage with fans as much as with pros. You don't need to be cool to talk to Neil, you just need to be interesting or interested.

I first read his work with Sandman, I bought the first issue from my local comic shop in the late eighties. I was a big fan of the UK wave of comic writers and artists who were invading the US at that time, having loved Warrior and 2000 AD, it was great to see them making a splash on the other side of the pond. Neil made rather an impact and Sandman was deliciously different from anything else I'd ever read. This was intelligent writing which you had to pay attention to, it was different from the usual comic book fare and he was plumbing depths of myth and storytelling I found compelling. He also brought out the best in the artists he worked with, he wrote to their style, playing on their strengths and tailoring stories to make the most of what they had to offer. His characters were complicated and layered and plots were deep and subtle and moving and he managed all this in 28 pages a month.

He's applied that same depth and skill to novels, scripts, screenplays.

I first met Neil at conventions, hanging about with the fans, he was a 'name' but not a superstar and he was happy to prop up the bar with the rest of us, discussing life, the universe and everything. My kind of pro, the type who hasn't lost their fannish roots and is still willing to hang about with the fans. We haven't seen nearly as much of him in the past few years, it will be cool, in a Neil sense of the word, to have him back in the UK for a con. 🌟

GUEST INTRODUCTION

ROG PEYTON

BY IAIN EMSLEY

Rog Peyton. What can you say about him?

He's been an editor, a con runner, an auctioneer skilfully parting many people from their hard earned on books and art, raconteur. Perhaps there's the thing. We know Rog for getting us to part with our hard-earned, especially at Andromeda. But there is more to him.

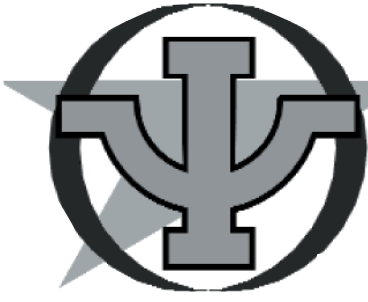

Rog started out in sf as a fan, reading everything he could get his hands on. He met fellow fan Cliff Teague in 1961 and together they brought the first Brum SF Group into existence.

Eventually he did the decent thing and joined the BSFA. Madly, perhaps bravely, he volunteered to edit Vector between 1964 and 1966. 1964 was also his first attendance at Eastercon coming across to the East of England from Birmingham. Rog decided to volunteer at a Con. He swore never to do this again and now helps out with Novacon. Nice to see fannish good intentions largely go out the window. Rog's other talent is art auctioneering at conventions, another matter that he fell into accidentally.

1971. Now there was a momentous year for him. He restarted the Brum SF group and Andromeda came into existence. Rog has a keen knowledge of sf, he's very good at spotting excellent reads and persuading folks to fork out for them – see Mary Doria Russell's The Sparrow. It was him and one other person who had the major effect of pushing this paperback into our hands and making us read a fine book.

Like you, I know there are a few people who recommend excellent books but few actually run a bookshop. And there's the difference. Through Andromeda Rog has been near the centre of sf activity, stopping it becoming London-centred, running signings and events in the middle of the country. Since the sad demise of the shop, Rog has not been idle – he still sells books and has his regular tables at conventions.

So stop Roger, offer him a drink, talk to him and let him regale you with tales of sf and fannish history. Who knows, he'll probably sell you a book at the same time... 🌀

IT IS YOUR PROGRAMME, HELP US RUN IT

STEVE ROGERSON

The programme for Orbital will be a mixture of the old and the new, but with a strong emphasis on interactivity. This means that the panels will try to bring the audience into the discussion rather than everyone just listening to those on the top table. There will be workshops for fans to pass on their skills to others. There will be plenty of games, not just tucked away in a games room somewhere but as an integral part of the programme. There will be quizzes and competitions, some of which will run all weekend.

The programme will include evening entertainment such as a masquerade, a fan-run cabaret, a play, a disco, a ceilidh and more. Panels, games and workshops too will run late for those still wanting to be involved. And, yes, there will be filking.

The programme will be multi-stream for nearly the whole convention. As well as one or two literature streams, there will be separate streams for TV, science, films and other media. Even some of the video stream will be interactive with introductions and discussions about what is being shown.

There will be two fan streams – one for literature fans and one for media fans – alternating in the fan room. And a major part of the programme will be a celebration of the 50th anniversary of the BSFA, which will have its own stream as well as an influence on other streams.

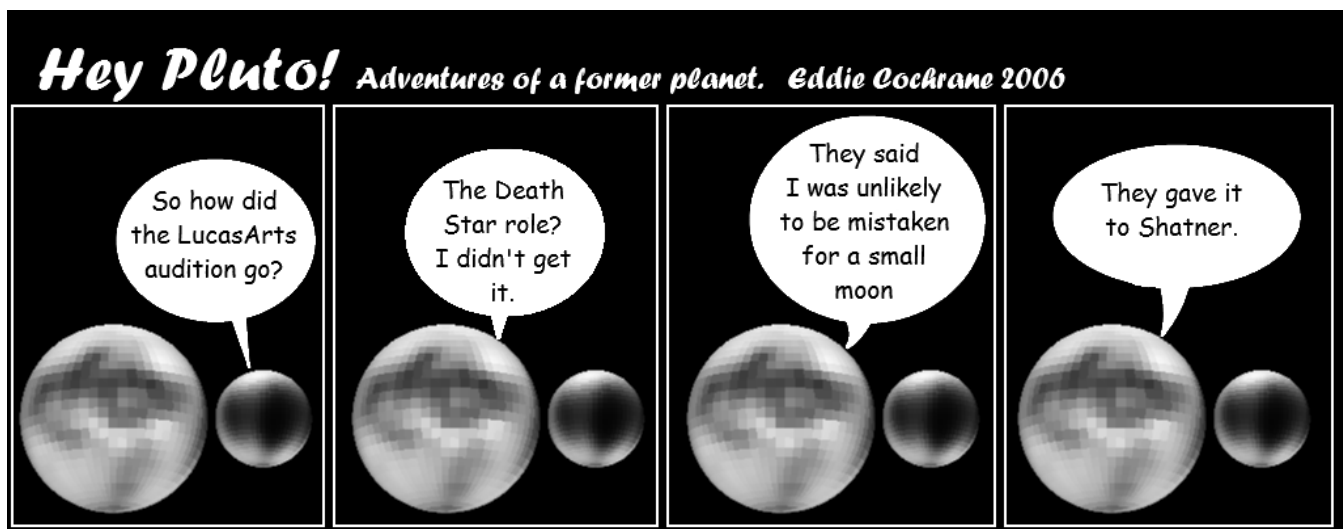

To achieve all this means having more programme items over the four days than the average Eastercon, and as such that means we will want far more of the membership of the convention taking an active part in the programme, whether on panels, running workshops, organising games and so on.

While we already have people in place now to run most of the streams, what is needed are volunteers, and we need a lot of them. So, if you fancy being on a panel, have a skill you'd like to share in a workshop, can give an interesting talk, would like to run an RPG or other game, then please let us know. If you have an idea for an item we would like to hear it. Drop me an email at programme@orbital2008.org or write to the main convention address (pg. 4) and we'll be in touch. 🌟

ORBITAL OBSERVER

In addition to the three progress reports we will also be producing a short newsletter called ORBITAL OBSERVER. This newsletter will be produced every 2 to 3 months from now until Easter 2008, with a mix of Orbital news, SF news, fandom news, convention news and articles. We won't be posting these out individually (we can't afford that much postage) but it can be downloaded from the publication pages of our web site at <http://www.orbital2008.org/publications/>. In addition we will be distributing them at conventions and fan meetings. If you would like some for a fan group you are involved with, let us know (see contact information on page 4), or, if you can print some out and distribute them yourself then that would be great (and save us even more postage). If you do print batches out to distribute to a fan group, do let us know who to, we like to know where they are getting to.

The first issue is available for download at <http://www.orbital2008.org/publications/> but to give you a taster, here is what has been happening to that sadly demoted planet, Pluto. 🪐

NEXT PROGRESS REPORT

The next progress report is currently scheduled to be posted after Easter 2007. We will have profiles of our other three guests, Tanith Lee, China Miéville, and Charles Stross, some information about our hotel, and an update on how the programme is coming together. We will let you know it is on its way, or if it is delayed, on-line and in the Orbital Observer newsletter. 🪐

Our records have both your full name and your badge name. The Orbital web site only shows your badge name unless you have selected the option to have your full name shown as well. Recent members who joined online will have been asked which option they preferred. Some earlier members who have badge names that might be confused with another fan (such as just their first name) may wish to visit the web site and give permission for their full name to appear on the web site. Membership details can be changed on the web at <http://www.orbital2008.org/memserv.html>, or by post to the membership address (see pg.4). 🌟
