CHAIRS' MESSAGE

KIA ORA (HELLO)!

It's been a long road since 2010 when Norman was attacked by flying cash. And there's a little time and a lot of work to go. We are just about a year away from CoNZealand and we are revving up the engines. We have a growing number of fun-loving people mahi tahi (working together) on this convention, and more and more joining us as crew and passengers on our cruise ship through the cosmos.

To the fans who believe in Worldcon and CoNZealand, and are joining us on this voyage, tēnā koutou katoa (thank you all). As we write this, there are 1131 people attending, and 478 supporting members. These numbers are far ahead of even our most optimistic projections, and we are thrilled to prepare for this voyage.

Once again, we invite you to join us on this whakatōmene (voyage of discovery), as passengers or crew. As with any voyage, there will be pukumahi (hard work). The more people huihui (come together) to build the best Worldcon we can, the greater the result of that effort. As a fully volunteer run event, every member has the opportunity to contribute to the event, be it by a few hours of volunteering at the con, or joining the crew to organise in the lead up to CoNZealand. Come aboard the intergalactic cruise ship CoNZealand, where all fans can come together, enjoy their favourite activities, and introduce others to what it is they love.

Haere Rā (so long)!

MERCEDES LACKEY AND LARRY DIXON

A FORMER LAB TECH, security guard, artist's model and computer programmer, Mercedes Lackey has been writing fantasy professionally since the mid 1980s. She has authored or co-authored well over 160 books across several series, most notably the trilogies, stand-alone novels and anthologies set in the land of Valdemar. Other series include: the interlinked Bedlam's Bard, SERRATED Edge and Diana Tregarde series featuring witchcraft and elves against a contemporary backdrop; the Elemental Masters novels, which reimagine popular fairy tales in a magical 20th century setting; and the high fantasy trilogies of the Obsidian Universe. The list of authors she has collaborated with includes Andre Norton, Anne McCaffrey, Piers Anthony — and her husband, Larry Dixon.

A race car driver and enthusiast, storm-spotter, volunteer firefighter and licensed bodyguard, Larry Dixon has illustrated and co-authored a number of books, including the Mage Wars (Gryphon) and Owl Mage Valdemar trilogies. His artwork has featured in several Dungeons & Dragons source books. Larry and Mercedes share a passion for birds of prey and their home doubles as a raptor rehabilitation facility. This interest brought Larry into contact with Weta Digital during the making of the Lord of the Rings film trilogy, when he provided digital photographs and casts that were used to create texture mapping for the Great Eagles.

Mercedes and Larry live in Oklahoma.

MEET OUR GUESTS OF HONOUR

GREG BROADMORE

GREG BROADMORE has worked at Weta Workshop since 2002, following an unsuccessful early career as a punk rocker and a briefer but more successful career illustrating children's books. As a concept designer and sculptor, he contributed to films including King Kong (2005), The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe (2005) and The Adventures of Tintin (2011). He was the lead concept designer on District 9 (2009).

In what Greg wittily refers to as his 'spare time' while working on these films, he started painting mock antique ray guns, and in 2007 he persuaded Weta Workshop to market these as a series of collectible props. This quickly led to the publication of Doctor Grordbort's Contrapulatronic Dingus Directory (2008), an illustrated book that provided a backstory for the ray guns. Doctor Grordbort's world of parodic pulp colonialism — or, as Greg has described it, 'Science Adventure Violence' — has since expanded to include a further three books, a touring exhibition, a board game and an augmented reality game featuring the voice of Stephen Fry.

Among the public artworks Greg has worked on are: 'Tripod' on Courtenay Place in Wellington; the ceiling of the Roxy Cinema, also in Wellington; and a statue in Hamilton of Richard O'Brien as 'Riff Raff'.

ROSE MITCHELL

SINCE THE EARLY 90S Rose Mitchell has been involved in SF club activities, convention running and supporting the FFANZ, NAFF, DUFF and GUFF fan funds. Her association with fandom began in Melbourne's Star Trek fan club Austrek, editing their clubzine 'The Captain's Log'. Over the years since, she has held positions within Austrek, the Melbourne Science Fiction Club, the Australian Science Fiction Foundation and Victorian Science Fiction Conventions. Conventions she has worked on include: at least two Confluxes (the annual Canberra-based convention); the Australian natcons Convergence (2002) and Convergence 2 (2007) as chair; the 1999 Worldcon, Aussiecon 3, as head of the finance division; and the 2010 Worldcon in Melbourne, Aussiecon 4, as co-chair. She forged strong and long-lasting links with New Zealand fandom as the 2003 FFANZ delegate.

Currently Rose is the President of the Australian Science Fiction Foundation, continuing its fifty-year mission of furthering science fiction in Australia. In 2017 she was awarded the Peter McNamara Award for Lifetime Achievement and Contribution to Science Fiction.

GEORGE R R MARTIN

GEORGE R R MARTIN made his first story sale in 1970 while studying journalism in Illinois. He finished his first novel, Dying of the Light, in 1976 (published 1977), and that same year he and Gardner Dozois held the very first Hugo Losers' Party at MidAmeriCon. He worked on several episodes of The Twilight Zone in the mid 80s, then became a writer-producer on the modernised Beauty and the Beast, all while writing more novels and short stories. In 1995, an adaptation of his popular novelette 'Sandkings' (1979) launched a revival of The Outer Limits. He is the series editor of the ongoing Wild Cards shared universe superhero series and a co-editor of several recent anthologies.

You may also know him as the author of A Song of Ice and Fire, which formed the basis for the recently ended and wildly successful HBO series Game of Thrones. A Song of Ice and Fire has spawned several prequel novellas, and the concluding volumes of the series itself are keenly anticipated.

A prominent blogger, convention attendee and award winner, in 2012 George received the World Fantasy Award for Life Achievement. He and his wife Parris McBride are supporters of the Wild Spirit Wolf Sanctuary in New Mexico.

HOTEL INFORMATION

CoNZealand will be slightly different to other Worldcons in that there is not a convention housing bureau, which is the usual way we reserve blocks of hotel rooms and keep them available for members. Instead, members will make their own reservations at each property. We will provide links to each of the convention hotels which will offer the convention discount. Details of these prices will be published early in the fourth quarter of 2019.

For accessibility requirements, we will notify everyone who to contact in the fourth quarter of 2019.

Once general convention bookings open, we will notify all members. We anticipate booking to open in December 2019.

The following is a selection of the hotels available to us:

- Intercontinental (IHG) — Grey Street
- DoubleTree (Hilton) — Lambton Quay
- Rydges (Rydges/Atura) — Featherston Street
- West Plaza — Wakefield Street
- James Cook Hotel Grand Chancellor — The Terrace
- Ibis (AccorHotels) — Featherston Street
- Novotel (AccorHotels) — Lambton Quay, Wellington
- Hotel Mercure Wellington Abel Tasman — Willis St

WHY WELLINGTON? WHY NOT!

The first CoNZealand promotional video has recently hit sci-fi fans' screens, all about the host city for the 78th Worldcon, and why everyone should want to come here.

Filmed out and about around Wellington, join CoNZealand's Chairs, Norman Cates and Kelly Buehler, as they visit some of the great spots of New Zealand's capital city. Wellington's compact size makes it easy to get around, with a huge range of cafes, bars, restaurants, shops and more all within easy strolling distance in the central business district. Jump on a bus and head a bit further out to see the Weta Cave, home of Weta Workshop, or up to Zealandia to meet some of New Zealand's native wildlife.

There's so much to see and do in Wellington, make sure you check out the video on our website <https://conzealand.nz/> to see more, then book your tickets and we'll see you here in 2020!

New Zealand visa rules have just changed for most travellers.

ABOUT WELLINGTON

CREDIT: Hamish Johnson

Māori culture

Wellington's earliest name was Te Upoko o te Ika a Maui or "the head of Maui's fish", which refers to the story of how Aotearoa New Zealand was created. According to Māori legend, the Polynesian navigator Maui hooked a giant fish that, when pulled to the surface, turned into the landform now known as the North Island. Wellington was originally named Te Whanganui a Tara, meaning "great harbour of Tara".

European settlers arrived in the early 1840s, originally settling in Petone on the northern end of the harbour. Due to the swampy conditions, the settlement was relocated across the harbour to where the city now stands. In 1865, Wellington became the capital of New Zealand and has been the centre of New Zealand government since then.

Middle of Middle Earth

From the moment a giant Gollum greets you at Wellington International Airport, you know you have arrived at the “Middle of Middle Earth”. The city, often referred to as “Wellywood”, is the centre of New Zealand’s film industry and home to film director Peter Jackson and his production facility.

A filming location for The Lord of the Rings and The Hobbit film trilogies and many other international blockbusters, Wellington was described by Mexican filmmaker Guillermo del Toro as “Hollywood the way God intended it”.

Food, wine and coffee

Wellington is renowned for its sophisticated food scene and claims to have more places to eat and drink per capita than New York City. Home to some of New Zealand’s finest dining establishments, the city also boasts a vibrant nightlife with some acclaimed bars.

In August, the city hosts the country’s biggest food festival, Visa Wellington On a Plate, where producers, suppliers, eateries and diners from across the greater Wellington region come together over the month for hundreds of culinary events and dining offers. During the festival, more than 100 establishments also compete for the coveted title of Wellington's best burger.

Wellington is also celebrated for its craft beer scene. Boutique beer enthusiasts flock to the capital for the annual Beervana festival, where more than 200 different craft brews are poured and sampled over two days in August.

Art and culture

New Zealand's arts and culture capital has many museums and art galleries, as well as a thriving theatre and film scene. Wellington hosts many large-scale international events annually, including the New Zealand Festival, HSBC Wellington Sevens Rugby tournament, and jaw-dropping World of WearableArt™ Awards Show.

The Museum of New Zealand Te Papa Tongarewa showcases New Zealand's diverse art and visual culture in innovative and interactive displays featuring wildlife, history, Māori culture and contemporary art. A must-see at the museum is the incredible Gallipoli: The Scale of Our War exhibition. Created in partnership with the special effects company Weta Workshop, the exhibition features models almost two and a half times the size of real people who were involved in World War I, and commemorates the war in a gripping yet solemn way.

The Wellington Museum, housed in a significant heritage building on the waterfront, offers an insight into the city's social and cultural history.

Nature and sustainability

Wellington is known as a socially and environmentally conscious city. Declared nuclear weapon-free in 1982, it was also the first capital in the southern hemisphere to gain Fair Trade status.

In the hills of suburban Karori is Zealandia, a unique eco-attraction and haven for some of New Zealand's rarest native animals, including New Zealand birds such as saddleback, hihi, and little spotted kiwi, and the giant weta insect and curious tuatara reptile.

Kapiti Island, 45 minutes from the city, is another example of the capital's sustainability efforts. New Zealand's oldest nature reserve, Kapiti Island has untouched New Zealand bush forest that is the natural habitat of many species of native wildlife.

NEW ZEALAND'S BRILLIANT HIDDEN GEMS

Those who wander on the road less travelled will discover some of New Zealand's hidden gems.

CAPE BRETT, NORTHLAND — One of New Zealand's lesser known overnight walks, the Cape Brett Track is an advanced hike that rewards walkers with dramatic coastal views. The 16km walk (one way) passes through native bush and the bookable hut provides a cosy place to stay the night before heading back the next day.

OPARARA ARCH, WEST COAST — Meander along a 2km (return) track through ancient rainforest and discover the Oparara Arch in Kahurangi National Park. The massive limestone arch is part of the the Honeycomb Hill Caves Specially Protected Area in the Oparara Basin and is an easy walk suitable for all fitness levels.

CREDIT: @bertnol

MT STOKES, MARLBOROUGH SOUNDS — At 1203m Mt Stokes is the highest point in the Marlborough Sounds and is an incredible spot for a different perspective on an unreal setting. Follow the track up through forest before emerging in a sub-alpine environment. Keep an eye out for Powelliphanta, a giant carnivorous snail found only in New Zealand.

CASTLEPOINT, WAIRARAPA — The Castlepoint lighthouse is a thing of beauty and jewel in the crown of the Castlepoint Scenic Reserve. A 60-minute drive from the Wairarapa town of Masterton, Castlepoint is a popular spot for New Zealand fur seals, dolphin and sometimes even small whales.

CREDIT: Shaun Jeffers

SALT WATER BATHS, MOTUEKA — Built in 1930 the Motueka Salt Water Baths may have been the world's first-ever infinity pool. Aim to visit at high tide in the early morning or sunset and there's a good chance that you'll have it completely to yourself, so you can practise your walking on water.

CREDIT: Kai Schwoerer

STEWART ISLAND, SOUTHLAND — The third island in New Zealand's main chain, Stewart Island is remote, beautiful, and often overlooked by travellers. Stewart Island has just received International Dark Sky Sanctuary status, is home to one of New Zealand's Great Walks the Rakiura Track and one of the best places to view kiwi in the wild.

CREDIT: Rebecca Wilson-Jennings

PUTANGIRUA PINNACLES, WAIRARAPA — The curious formations of the Putangirua Pinnacles can be found in the Wairarapa region in the lower North Island. The easy walk follows a streambed to the base of these marvels or you can carry on to the lookout for stunning views of Lake Onoke and Cape Palliser.

SITE SELECTION: CALL FOR BIDS

CoNZealand will be holding a 2022 Worldcon site selection. The filing deadline for the ballot will be 31 January 2020; however, all bids filed after that date but before the close of site selection will still be eligible as write-in candidates.

Notice to 2022 Worldcon Bidders

Per section 4.6 of the WSFS Constitution, candidates must file a statement of their intent to bid and provide adequate evidence of an agreement with their proposed site's facilities and the rules under which their Worldcon Committee will operate (particularly including the procedures for the selection, term of office, and replacement of their chief executive officer or officers). Sites more than 500 miles from Wellington, New Zealand, will be eligible for Worldcon site selection. Interested parties may direct questions regarding either site selection to siteselection@conzealand.nz. Once we receive bid filings they will be made available on our site selection page on our website.

To file a bid, send the documents described above by email or by postal mail to:

CoNZealand
Attn: Site Selection
PO Box 15483
Miramar, Wellington 6243

HELP WANTED

Are you as excited as we are about CoNZealand? Would you like to get involved and help make it the biggest and best Worldcon to ever hit Kiwi shores? The Promotions Division needs your help! We are looking for people for the following roles:

OUTREACH AREA HEAD: Do you have experience in marketing, communications or publicity, as well as experience of creating commercial partnerships? We are looking for somebody to manage the team working with publishers, tourism operators, librarians, bookshops and so on - encouraging businesses to promote CoNZealand to their customers as well as persuading them of the benefits of getting involved in programming activities themselves.

INTERNATIONAL OUTREACH AREA HEAD: Do you have experience of working with a worldwide team? We are looking for somebody to manage our presence at conventions around the world: supporting members who are running tables or distributing flyers, ensuring we have enough collateral available in the right parts of the world, and overseeing our international advertising.

DESIGN AREA HEAD: We are looking for a designer with both creative and account admin experience. You will be involved with the "Big Picture" overview and design direction of CoNZealand, looking after projects and giving design support. There is an established house brand for collateral, and lots of space to create bespoke products. You will need your own subscription for Adobe CC.

If you're interested in any of these roles, please contact our Volunteer Manager on volunteers@conzealand.nz

If you are interested in volunteering for other areas, take a look at our volunteer page here:

<https://conzealand.nz/conzealand-needs>.

If you are interested in participating in programming, please fill out our initial survey here:

If you are interested in registering as a vendor, please complete the form here: <https://conzealand.nz/dealers-interest-form>

VOLUNTEER STORIES

SANDY LEVY:

I had been going to cons from the late '70s early '80s without volunteering. I had a small circle of friends that I interacted with and thought that was enough. Was I wrong!

Around 2007, I stopped at the Chicago Bid for 2008 table and asked the fatal question, "Do you need any help?" And I was hooked. From never working a con, I was a founding member of the Chicago for 2012 bid. I've worked local cons and many Worldcons.

Since I started working cons, I have gained an amazing network of friends. From close buddies to the casual friendly acquaintances many of us are. No one believes that I am shy anymore, that's a good thing. Fandom has become almost family.

JOHN MAIZELS:

Worldcons are amazing: you get out whatever you put in, and then some.

I attended my first Worldcon in Melbourne in 1975, as an avid reader, but con-neo. With no guidance whatsoever, I managed to do everything possible to minimise the experience. Not through trying to get it wrong, just from lack of understanding of what happens at Worldcons. Yes, I had a good time. But... I didn't know I could volunteer. Met almost nobody. Attended no bid parties. Completely missed the Masquerade. Went home. Wondered.

Ten years pass and I attend my second Worldcon, also in Melbourne, with a mantra to make up for lost time. Volunteered early for everything and found myself on the Con Committee as Tech Director. Met soooo many peoples, many of whom are still international best buds. An unexpected dropout propelled me from never having attended a Worldcon Masquerade to being the MC for one. I met more peoples. I signed up for Brighton which won the bid that year, thinking that a strategy of rolling Worldcon attendance might get me out more. It did.

There came a whirlwind of con-induced travel: The Hague, San Francisco, Winnipeg, Los Angeles, Yokohama, Toronto, Glasgow, Melbourne a few more times, Chicago, Reno, Philly... and many more places I'd otherwise have missed.

Along the way I've learned how to produce and direct video shows, been on panels, attended squillions of room parties, and had a very good time.

Even better, the participation in Worldcons and Fandom has led to formal qualifications, career development, better people management skills, a global circle of very good friends and — amazingly — a marriage.

So here's the message: getting the best out of ConZealand is easy. Join up, volunteer and immerse yourself. Say yes to everything. What could possibly go wrong?

NORMAN CATES:

I've been helping out at conventions since pretty much the second one I ever went to in 1990. I found some aspects that I loved, and kept on doing them. Fast forward mumble mumble years, and I volunteered to help in the Tech division at Loncon 3, in 2014. I was put in charge of the Main Stage.

One of the major events was the Worldcon Philharmonic Orchestra. This involved assembling a set of risers, placing chairs and music stands, and hooking everything up to power. And we had to do it after noon, ready for rehearsal at 6PM. So at noon, my crew and I had assembled to start work. And I turned around and there were about 20 Loncon volunteers, standing bright-eyed and ready to go. And so we got going. And we all managed to get a full symphony orchestra on stage in time for their 6PM rehearsal, then the 8PM performance.

This will stand out as one of the highlights of my life. Not just convention going, but my LIFE! This was such an incredible experience, that I want to try to create opportunities for other volunteers to have similar experiences.

As I said to the Chairs at the end of Loncon 3, where else would you get this chance?
