Programme Room 2

Kaffeklatsch Room

Art Room

|  | Description  | Time   |   | Time   |                 |   |   |
|--|--|--|---|--|-----------------|---|---|
|  |  | 09:3   | 10 "My First Con": a quick session for the nervous or inexperienced on how to get the most out of the day,with John Baverstock and Dan Pawley   |  |                 |   |   |
| 09:45  | Welcome : MEG  | 09:4   |   | 09:45  |                 |   |   |
| 09:50  | Reading: Gaie Sebold   | 09:5   | 0 Reading: David Gullen   | 09:50  |                 | INERWORKING TOF INTOVERS, AS DIOMOUND DOOKS   |   |
| 10:00  | Where Do I Begin: Gaie Sebold, Dave Hutchinson, Adrian Selby, Kim Lakin-Smith, John Allen (M)The panel discusses the different approaches to starting your story. Is it better to start at the beginningor throw your reader right in media res? Should you plot everything, or just strike off into the unknown?This panel discusses what you do before you even start typing (make a cup of tea, I shouldn't wonder) | 10:0   | But What Does It Mean For Me?: Janet Edwards, Rosie Oliver, David Gullen, Kevlin Henney, DevAgarwal (M) SF casually tosses around massive paradigm shifts without really diving into their impact oneveryday life. If teleportation became widely available tomorrow what would the impact be on a worker in acar factory, a GP or a border official? What would the impact of that be on society? Almost every SF writermissed the coming of smartphones – let's get ahead of the next wave.   | 10:00  | Vicky Brewster  | (and authors) fails so much more heavily now onthe individual, if dilke to discuss some strategies fornetworking and getting the most out of a con - orany social situation - when you're an introvert.Would include discussing the difference betweenintroversion and shyness or anxiety; go throughsome conversions staters: self condience tips;active listening and having meaningful   |   |
| 10:50  | Reading: Joanne Hall   | 10:5   | 50 Reading: Tony Cooper   | 10:50  |                 | conversations   |   |
| 11:00  | GoH: Joanne Hall interviewed by Roz Clarke   | 11:0   | is not intended to be a deathmatch to establish which is the One True Model, but a weighing up of pros andcons to help you decide which one is best for you   | 11:00  | Juliet Mckenna  | Making Every Word Count - effectiveuse of detail in fiction.  |   |
| 11:50  | Reading: Graham Austin-King  | 11:5   | 50 Reading: Rexx Deane  | 11:50  |                 |   |   |
| 12:00  | IKB The Engineer Lewis P Bear presents an insight into Isambard Kingdom Brunel with particularfocus on the SS Great Britain.   | 12:0   | round amongst the cold equations?   | 12:00  | Jasper Fforde   | Any issues around writing, motivation,structure, adding 'sparkle' or writingseries books, dealing withpublishers/editors/publicity.   | Sarah Ash / Zoe BurgessForeman anime talk                                   |
| 12:50  | Reading: Piotr Swietlik  | 12:5   | 50 Reading: Jessica Rydill  | 12:50  |                 |   |   |
| 13:00  | GoH: Andrew Skilleter interviewed by Ken Shinn   | 13:0   | It Were All Fields Round Here: Dave Hutchinson, Jessica Rydill, GR Matthews, Anna Smith Spark,Steven Poore (M) The panel discuss the books from their past they still hold dear to their hearts, even if amodern revisiting can be a letdown. What will you forgive in the service of nostalgia? What do you holdclose despite the general insistence that it is actually terrible?   | 13:00  | Joanne Hall     | Secrets of the Slush Pile: I'm the acquisitions editorat a small press, and in this discussion Ti tell yousome of the ways to help your manuscript escapethe dreaded slush pile. We'l be taking aboutpresentation, cover letters, the dread synopsis,submission guidelines and more, and Til let you inon some secrets of the slush pile and tell you hopeto help your manuscript shine!  |   |
| 13:50  | Setup:   | 13:5   | 50  | 13:50  |                 |   |   |
| 14:00  | Book launch: Pete Sutton's "Seven Deadly Swords"   | 14:0   | Break0  | 14:00  |                 |   |   |
| 14:50  | Reading: Jasper Fforde   | 14:5   | 50 Reading: Steve McHugh  | 14:50  |                 |   |   |
|  |  |  |   |  |                 |   |   |
| 15:00  | How To Become A Published Author: Jasper Fforde, Anna Stephens, Jacey Bedford, SimonKewin, Cavan Scott (M) SPOILER: It's not easy. But with a manuscript under your belt you've donethe hard part. Our panel of professionals from the writing and publishing worlds will offer hints and tipsbased on their own experiences and careers to date.  | 15:0   | Here Be Dragons. And Yokai. And Tokoloshe. And Kupua: Nick Hembery, Zoe Burgess-Foreman,Steve McHugh, Sarah Ash, Jessica Rydiil (M) Our fantasy is still largely based in the folkore andmythology of Western Europe, but eyes are beginning to look further afield. There are equally richtraditions all over the world, but do we need to tread carefully when taking from them? How do we staytrue to the core of a myth, or be inspired by it, without missing the point or appropriating someone else'sculture? How can we encourage representation of writers from these cultures?  | 15:00  | Gareth L Powell | Kaffeeklatsch. Especially happy foraspiring authors to come along and askany questions they may have about thecraft and business of writing, or just kickback and have a conversation   | E Tallis - practical  |
| 15:00  | Kewin, Cavan Scott (M) SPOILER: It's not easy. But with a manuscript under your belt you've done the hard part. Our panel of professionals from the writing and publishing worlds will offer hints and tips  | 15:0   | Steve McHugh, Sarah Ash, Jessica Rydiil (M) Our fantasy is still largely based in the folkore andmythology of Western Europe, but eyes are beginning to look further afield. There are equally richtraditions all over the world, but do we need to trada carefully when taking from them? How do we staytrue to the core of a myth, or be inspired by it, without missing the point or appropriating someone else'sculture? How can we encourage representation of writers from these cultures?  | 15:00  | Gareth L Powell | aspiring authors to come along and askany questions they may have about thecraft and business of writing, or just kick  | E Tallis - practical  |
| 15:50  | Kewin, Cavan Scott (M) SPOILER: It's not easy. But with a manuscript under your belt you've done the hard part. Our panel of professionals from the writing and publishing worlds will offer hints and tips based on their own experiences and careers to date.    Reading: Dave Hutchinson    GoH: Dave Hutchinson interviewed by Dan Pawley  | 15:5   | Steve McHugh, Sarah Ash, Jessica Rydiil (M) Our fantasy is still largely based in the folkore andmythology of Western Europe, but eyes are beginning to look further afield. There are equally richtraditions all over the world, but do we need to tread carefully when taking from them? How do we staytrue to the core of a myth, or be inspired by it, without missing the point or appropriating someone else'sculture? How can we encourage representation of writers from these cultures?      50    Reading: Dominic Dulley      My Favourite Cliché: Joanne Hall, Reiley Daniels, Dominic Dulley, Piotr Swietlik, Ben Jeapes (M)Panellists pick the tropes and cliches that they love (or hate) from SF&F. Can't get enough of lost heirs tofaraway kingdoms, or are you sick of easy FTL travel? Audience votes will decide what gets saved, andwhat gets consigned to Room 101   | 15:50  | Gareth L Powell | aspiring authors to come along and askany questions they may have about thecraft and business of writing, or just kick  | E Tallis - practicalworkshop  |
| 15:50  | Kewin, Cavan Scott (M) SPOILER: It's not easy. But with a manuscript under your belt you've donethe hard part. Our panel of professionals from the writing and publishing worlds will offer hints and tipsbased on their own experiences and careers to date.Reading: Dave Hutchinson  | 15:5   | Steve McHugh, Sarah Ash, Jessica Rydiil (M) Our fantasy is still largely based in the folkore andmythology of Western Europe, but eyes are beginning to look further afield. There are equally richtraditions all over the world, but do we need to tread carefully when taking from them? How do we staytrue to the core of a myth, or be inspired by it, without missing the point or appropriating someone else'sculture? How can we encourage representation of writers from these cultures?      Steading: Dominic Dulley      My Favourite Cliché: Joanne Hall, Reiley Daniels, Dominic Dulley, Piotr Swietlik, Ben Jeapes (M)Panellists pick the tropes and cliches that they love (or hate) from SF&F. Can't get enough of lost heirs tofaraway kingdoms, or are you sick of easy FTL travel? Audience votes will decide what gets saved, and   | 15:50  |                 | aspiring authors to come along and askany questions they may have about thecraft and business of writing, or just kickback and have a conversationAre you struggling to write the first draftof your novel? Are you researchingendlessly but not actually writing thebook? Have you had a book in yourhead for years but been unable to startit? Do you have a drawer full of   | E Tallis - practicalworkshop  |
| 15:50  | Kewin, Cavan Scott (M) SPOILER: It's not easy. But with a manuscript under your belt you've done the hard part. Our panel of professionals from the writing and publishing worlds will offer hints and tips based on their own experiences and careers to date.    Reading: Dave Hutchinson    GoH: Dave Hutchinson interviewed by Dan Pawley  | 15:5   | Steve McHugh, Sarah Ash, Jessica Rydiil (M) Our fantasy is still largely based in the folkore andmythology of Western Europe, but eyes are beginning to look further afield. There are equally richtraditions all over the world, but do we need to tread carefully when taking from them? How do we staytrue to the core of a myth, or be inspired by it, without missing the point or appropriating someone else'sculture? How can we encourage representation of writers from these cultures?      My Favourite Cliché: Joanne Hall, Reiley Daniels, Dominic Dulley, Piotr Swietlik, Ben Jeapes (M)Panellists pick the tropes and cliches that they love (or hate) from SF&F. Can't get enough of lost heirs tofaraway kingdoms, or are you sick of easy FTL travel? Audience votes will decide what gets saved, andwhat gets consigned to Room 101      Reading: Juliet McKenna    Where Have All The Thin Books Gone?: Pete Sutton, Juliet McKenna, Graham Austin King, GailWilliams, Ian Milisted (M) A genre novel in the 70s usually came in at around 200 pages. Now we areresolution tenned us to the both conved the low point of bits do along barlow and saved and barlow are of the proved to beresolution to meet the substome of the low point of the page. Now we areresolution to meet the barlow can be both conved to be  | 15:50  |                 | aspiring authors to come along and askany questions they may have about thecraft and business of writing, or just kickback and have a conversationAre you struggling to write the first draftof your novel? Are you researchingendlessly but not actually writing thebook? Have you had a book in yourhead for years but been unable to startit? Do you have a drawer full of   | E Tallis - practicalworkshop  |
| 15:5016:0016:5017:00                   | Kewin, Cavan Scott (M) SPOILER: It's not easy. But with a manuscript under your belt you've done the hard part. Our panel of professionals from the writing and publishing worlds will offer hints and tips based on their own experiences and careers to date.    Reading: Dave Hutchinson  | 15:516:016:517:0                 | Steve McHugh, Sarah Ash, Jessica Rydiil (M) Our fantasy is still largely based in the folk fore andmythology of Western Europe, but eyes are beginning to look further afield. There are equally richtraditions all over the world, but do we need to tread carefully when taking from them? How do we staytrue to the core of a myth, or be inspired by it, without missing the point or appropriating someone else'sculture? How can we encourage representation of writers from these cultures?      80    Reading: Dominic Dulley      90    Reading: Dominic Dulley      90    Reading: Dominic Dulley      91    My Favourite Cliché: Joanne Hall, Reiley Daniels, Dominic Dulley, Piotr Swietlik, Ben Jeapes (M)Panellists pick the tropes and cliches that they love (or hate) from SF&F. Can't get enough of lost heirs tofaraway kingdoms, or are you sick of easy FTL travel? Audience votes will decide what gets saved, andwhat gets consigned to Room 101      90    Reading: Juliet McKenna      91    Where Have All The Thin Books Gone?: Pete Sutton, Juliet McKenna, Graham Austin King, GailWilliams, Ian Millsted (M) A genre novel in the 70s usually came in at around 200 pages. Now we areregularly served up tomes the heft and thickness of a house brick. What does this means for authors? Dothey get paid more for fat books, or does the industry just expect them to write faster in order to make aliving? How much of this expansion is down to the tale that needed to be told, and how much is to make it   | 15:5016:0016:50                            | Emma Newman     | aspiring authors to come along and askany questions they may have about thecraft and business of writing, or just kickback and have a conversationAre you struggling to write the first draftof your novel? Are you researchingendlessly but not actually writing thebook? Have you had a book in yourhead for years but been unable to startit? Do you have a drawer full ofunfinished stories and manuscripts?(Self-publishing A-2), coveringdiscussion on hing editors, whetheryou need to buy ISBNs (and how), howto format your book, which companiesare available to print, and how to set updistribution. I'd hope to cover all thethings I found difficult to find out when I   | E Tallis - practicalworkshopWrite Your Name InGallifreyan with Andy |
| 15:5016:0016:5017:0017:5018:00 | Kewin, Cavan Scott (M) SPOILER: It's not easy. But with a manuscript under your belt you've done the hard part. Our panel of professionals from the writing and publishing worlds will offer hints and tips based on their own experiences and careers to date.    Reading: Dave Hutchinson  | 15:516:016:517:017:518:0 | Steve McHugh, Sarah Ash, Jessica Rydiil (M) Our fantasy is still largely based in the folk fore andmythology of Western Europe, but eyes are beginning to look further afield. There are equally richtraditions all over the world, but do we need to tread carefully when taking from them? How do we staytrue to the core of a myth, or be inspired by it, without missing the point or appropriating someone else'sculture? How can we encourage representation of writers from these cultures?      My Favourite Cliché: Joanne Hall, Reiley Daniels, Dominic Dulley, Piotr Swietlik, Ben Jeapes (M)Panellists pick the tropes and cliches that they love (or hate) from SF&F. Can't get enough of lost heirs tofaraway kingdoms, or are you sick of easy FTL travel? Audience votes will decide what gets saved, andwhat gets consigned to Room 101      Reading: Juliet McKenna      Where Have All The Thin Books Gone?: Pete Sutton, Juliet McKenna, Graham Austin King, GailWilliams, Ian Millsted (M) A genre novel in the 70s usually came in at around 200 pages. Now we areregularly served up tomes the heft and thickness of a house brick. What does this means for authors? Dohey get paid more for fat books, or does the industry just expect them to write faster in order to make aliving? How much of this expansion is down to the tale that needed to be told, and how much is to make itlook good in the bookshop?      Desert Island Fantasy: John Allen, Anna Smith Spark, Terry Jackman, Steven Poore, Jasper Fforde(M) Our panellists choose one fantasy book they'd take to a desert island. If you could only take onefantasy book to a desert island what would you take and why? What makes a book re-readable, whatattributes does a good desert island book need?  | 15:5016:0016:5017:0017:5018:00 | Emma Newman     | aspiring authors to come along and askany questions they may have about thecraft and business of writing, or just kickback and have a conversationAre you struggling to write the first draftof your novel? Are you researchingendlessly but not actually writing thebook? Have you had a book in yourhead for years but been unable to startit? Do you have a drawer full ofunfinished stories and manuscripts?(Self-publishing A-Z), coveringdiscussion on hing editors, whetheryou need to buy ISBNs (and how), howto format your book, which companiesare available to print, and how to set updistribution. I'd hope to cover all thethings I found difficult to find out when Istarted on my self-publishing journey. | E Tallis - practicalworkshopWrite Your Name InGallifreyan with Andy |
| 15:5016:0016:5017:0017:5018:00 | Kewin, Cavan Scott (M) SPOLER: It's not easy. But with a manuscript under your belt you've done the hard part. Our panel of professionals from the writing and publishing worlds will offer hints and tips based on their own experiences and careers to date.    Reading: Dave Hutchinson   | 15:516:016:517:017:518:0 | Steve McHugh, Sarah Ash, Jessica Rydiil (M) Our fantasy is still largely based in the folkore andmythology of Western Europe, but eyes are beginning to look further afield. There are equally richtraditions all over the world, but do we need to tread carefully when taking from them? How do we staytrue to the core of a myth, or be inspired by it, without missing the point or appropriating someone else'sculture? How can we encourage representation of writers from these cultures?      My Favourite Cliché: Joanne Hall, Reiley Daniels, Dominic Dulley, Piotr Swietlik, Ben Jeapes (M)Panellists pick the tropes and cliches that they love (or hate) from SF&F. Can't get enough of lost heirs tofaraway kingdoms, or are you sick of easy FTL travel? Audience votes will decide what gets saved, andwhat gets consigned to Room 101      My Favourite Cliché: Joanne Hall, Reiley Daniels, Dominic Dulley, Piotr Swietlik, Ben Jeapes (M)Panellists pick the tropes and cliches that they love (or hate) from SF&F. Can't get enough of lost heirs tofaraway kingdoms, or are you sick of easy FTL travel? Audience votes will decide what gets saved, andwhat gets consigned to Room 101      More Have All The Thin Books Gone?: Pete Sutton, Juliet McKenna, Graham Austin King, GailWilliams, Ian Millsted (M) A genre novel in the 70s usually came in at around 200 pages. Now we areregularly served up tomes the heft and thickness of a house brick. What does this means for authors? Dothey get paid more for tabooks, or does the industry just expect them to write faster in order to make aliving? How much of this expansion is down to the tale that needed to be told, and how much is to make itlook good in the bookshop?      Desert Island Fantasy: John Allen, Anna Smith Spark, Terry Jackman, Steven Poore, Jasper Fforde(M) Our panellists choose one fantasy book they'd take to a deset island. If you could | 15:5016:0016:5017:0017:50          | Emma Newman     | aspiring authors to come along and askany questions they may have about thecraft and business of writing, or just kickback and have a conversationAre you struggling to write the first draftof your novel? Are you researchingendlessly but not actually writing thebook? Have you had a book in yourhead for years but been unable to startit? Do you have a drawer full ofunfinished stories and manuscripts?(Self-publishing A-Z), coveringdiscussion on hing editors, whetheryou need to buy ISBNs (and how), howto format your book, which companiesare available to print, and how to set updistribution. I'd hope to cover all thethings I fourd dificult to find out when Istarted on my self-publishing journey.  | E Tallis - practicalworkshopWrite Your Name InGallifreyan with Andy |
| 15:5016:0016:5017:0017:5018:00 | Kewin, Cavan Scott (M) SPOILER: It's not easy. But with a manuscript under your belt you've done the hard part. Our panel of professionals from the writing and publishing worlds will offer hints and tips based on their own experiences and careers to date.    Reading: Dave Hutchinson  | 15:516:016:517:017:518:0 | Steve McHugh, Sarah Ash, Jessica Rydiil (M) Our fantasy is still largely based in the folknore andmythology of Western Europe, but eyes are beginning to look further afield. There are equally richtraditions all over the world, but do we need to tread carefully when taking from them? How do we staytrue to the core of a myth, or be inspired by it, without missing the point or appropriating someone else'sculture? How can we encourage representation of writers from these cultures?      My Favourite Cliché: Joanne Hall, Reiley Daniels, Dominic Dulley, Piotr Swietlik, Ben Jeapes (M)Panellists pick the tropes and cliches that they love (or hate) from SF&F. Can't get enough of lost heirs tofaraway kingdoms, or are you sick of easy FTL travel? Audience votes will decide what gets saved, andwhat gets consigned to Room 101      Reading: Juliet McKenna      Where Have All The Thin Books Gone?: Pete Sutton, Juliet McKenna, Graham Austin King, GailWilliams, Ian Millsted (M) A genre novel in the 70s usually came in at around 200 pages. Now we areregularly served up tomes the heft and thickness of a house brick. What does this means for authors? Dothey get paid more for fat books, or does the industry just expect them to write faster in order to make aliving? How much of this expansion is down to the tale that needed to be told, and how much is to make itlook good in the bookshop?      Desert Island Fantasy: John Allen, Anna Smith Spark, Terry Jackman, Steven Poore, Jasper Fforde(M) Our panellists choose one fantasy book they'd take to a desert island. If you could only take onefantasy book to a desert island what would you take and why? What makes a book re-readable, whatattributes does a good desert island book need?      Desert Island Fantasy: John Allen, Anna Smith Spark, Terry Jackman, Steven Poore, Jasper Fforde(M) Our panelists c                                | 15:5016:0016:5017:0017:5018:00 | Emma Newman     | aspiring authors to come along and askany questions they may have about thecraft and business of writing, or just kickback and have a conversationAre you struggling to write the first draftof your novel? Are you researchingendlessly but not actually writing thebook? Have you had a book in yourhead for years but been unable to startit? Do you have a drawer full ofunfinished stories and manuscripts?(Self-publishing A-Z), coveringdiscussion on hing editors, whetheryou need to buy ISBNs (and how), howto format your book, which companiesare available to print, and how to set updistribution. I'd hope to cover all thethings I fourd dificult to find out when Istarted on my self-publishing journey.  | E Tallis - practicalworkshopWrite Your Name InGallifreyan with Andy |