LONDON S-F CONVENTION

May 31st - June 1st

WELCOME TO THE CONVENTION !

by Ted Carnell, Chairman of the Convention Committee

This year sees London putting on its sixth official Convention since 1938, and, although it will not be so star-studded with visitors as last year's International Convention, it looks like being the biggest and most interesting the Capital has had the pleasure of organising.

Fans and readers of science fiction who have attended previous Conventions need no introduction into the delights and high lights of a two-day meeting crammed with interesting discussions and personalities connected with their favourite literature, but, for the people who have never attended one, let me make your mind up now for you. It is a memorable occasion and one that gives food for thought and conversation for many months afterwards.

Something will be happening all the time, from the moment the Convention opens at 11.00 a.m. on Saturday, May 31st. up until the closing stages on the Sunday evening. The setting of the ballroom in the Royal Hotel is ideal, and there are plenty of places to eat and drink nearby, or on the premises.

Make this one of your most memorable Whitsuntide holidays. We shall look forward to meeting you all, either as new or old friends

RECORDINGS As most Convention guests will know, Arthur C. Clarke noted s-f author and astronautics expert is at present visiting the US, following the 'Book-of-the-Month-Club' choice of his recent 'Exploration of Space'.

He echoes our regrets that he cannot be present at the London Convention this year, but has recorded an address which will be played at the Con.

By arrangement with Messrs. Hutchinson, the publishers, a short recording of a scene from Denis Wheatley's new s-f novel, "Star of Ill Omen" (Hutchinson 12/6d) will be played during the Convention, with Mr. Wheatley in the leading role.

We also hope to present a recording made at the San Diego S-F Convention a few weeks ago, when many famous s-f personalities were present.
