Glitter #24, August 19, 2011, is the newsletter of Corflu Glitter, the 29th edition of what has become the World Trufandom Convention.

Edited by Arnie Katz

Glitter is available by request, but it may arrive unbidden, like mold on a just-bought loaf of bread.

Glitter is also available as a free download at:

Logo Merchandise Line Expanded!

Don Miller, the proprietor of Corflu Glitter's Café Press store, has responded to Vast Popular Demand by adding several tempting items to the original selection. All items are adorned with Don Miller's logo and the legend "Vegas, 2012." All profits go to Corflu Glitter.

Items newly added are a golf shirt with a small logo on the breast ($18.99+), a regular tee-shirt ($15.99), a 3.5-in. button ($3.45) and a 2.25-in. button ($2.99).

Currently available are a regular-size coffee mug ($10/99), a large mug ($11.99), a 20-oz. tankard ($13.99) and a Corflu Glitter baseball cap ($14.99). The cap comes in black as well as a range of colors. (Did RH Macy really start this way?)

Check out the store at: <http://www.cafepress.com/CorfluGlitter>. If there are other items you'd like such as the wall clock or stickers, drop Don Miller (scifiguy666@cox.net) and let him know.

A Second Song Salutes Corflu Glitter!

Corflu Glitter has already become the first edition of Trufandom's World Convention to boast its own theme song, thanks to the prodigious work of Bill Mills. Host of the popular fannish website TheVoicesofFandom.com wrote the fannish song parody Walk Through the Glitter and recorded an outstanding performance that can be heard at www.corflu.org.

Now, a number of Vegrants have joined forces to produce a second fannish song parody about Corflu Glitter. Nic Farey wrote Hey Hey Hey Hey (Take a Trip) and recorded the keyboard and vocal (also featuring wife Bobbie). At a small gathering at the Fareys' home, JoHn Hardin, Jacq Monahan, Teresa Cochran, James Taylor and Brenda Dupont contributed some additional touches.

Nic Farey has posted a preliminary version of Hey Hey Hey Hey on a private listserv. The actual release will probably occur before the end of the month. Glitter will deliver the link.

Same Honor, Adjusted Name

Trufandom's most prestigious awards, voted by the fans and announced at Corflu each year, have undergone a slight name change. The passage of time has rendered the original name inaccurate and, besides, recent Corflus have been a bit hit-and-miss when referring to them. The change, therefore, not only improves relevance but also reinforces uniform use of the name, going forward.

Formerly known as the Fanzine Activity Achievement Awards,” when people actually got it right, they will henceforth be called the “Fan Activity Achievement Awards.”

The change from “Fanzine” to “Fan” reflects the expansion of the FAAn Awards to include “Best Fan Website” and strong finishes in the “Best Fan Writer” category by fans who work appears primarily on listservs, blogs and websites.

Lifetime Achievement Award Nominations Deadlines Looms

The nominations phase for the 2012 Lifetime Achievement Award is still underway, but the deadline for making your opinion heard is drawing to a close. Joyce Katz has set the deadline for September 6, 2011.

The Lifetime Achievement Award honors a deserving, living fan for the longevity, quality and quantity of their contributions to our subculture. The two previous recipients, Ted White and Art Widner, exemplify the attributes of an LAA winner.

Nominations should be sent to the LAA Committee’s non-voting Helper (me) at: crossfire4@Cox.net. Fans may nominate whether or not they are members of Corflu at this time. After the deadline, the Lifetime Achievement Awards Committee will receive the names of the most-nominated fans and will select the recipient from among them.

Time to Wrap Up Another Issue

Goodbye until, perhaps next Friday
Meanwhile, keep fanning! — Arnie
