From the ConChair

Welcome to the first Progress Report for ConJosé! We're very excited about putting together a Worldcon — there's so much involved! But we're taking the first year very slowly. Our negotiating team is lining up final contracts with our hotels and convention center, our publications team is putting together this PR, our registration team is making sure you get this, and our comptroller is making sure your money goes to a good home until it's time for the convention. Most of our bid committee is taking a well-earned rest — it's a long and difficult process to win a Worldcon, and they carried it off with style and grace. Thanks again to Seattle for making it a good race. We plan to use a lot of their talent in putting on our con.

We're one of the few cons to have a different bid chair from convention chair, and we want to honor the work that went into getting us the con. Kevin Standlee pulled together a diverse crew with lots of opinions and held them together through the years of bidding. Personally, I hope I can do as good a job pulling together diverse people to run the con. Because of his work, we're planning to list Kevin in our publications as Bid Chair all the way through the final wrap-up, in any place where we list the convention chair. It's the least we can do to honor his tireless, unremitting and successful effort to get us the convention.

If you have suggestions or ideas for us, feel free to visit our web site and send us e-mail. We'll also look at any suggestions that come in through postal mail or to one of us in person. Remember, the Worldcon is a collaboration between you and several thousand other fans — we all create it together. I'm looking forward to having fun with all of you in September of 2002.

Tom Whitmore
 Convention Chair, ConJosé

From the Bid Chair

Well, the bid is over. Three years of hard but generally enjoyable work and we have a Worldcon in the San Francisco Bay Area. When we launched this bid at L.A.con III in 1996, we didn't expect that we would end up in San José. We had a wonderful site right in the center of San Francisco. The area around the Moscone Center is a much better site now than it was in 1993 for ConFrancisco, and if you get a chance during ConJosé it is well worth a visit. But San Francisco is booming as a conference destination right now, and securing hotel deals that fans would be happy with proved beyond us this time. Fortunately the Bay Area is lucky enough to have two major cities with top class conference facilities. The site in San José is excellent and I think we will be able to host a very fine Worldcon there.

In this, my last official public address as Chair of the 2002 Bid, I would like to express my warmest thanks to

In this, my last official public address as Chair of the 2002 Bid, I would like to express my warmest thanks to everyone who pre-supported us at any level, and who volunteered to work for us during the bid by sitting behind tables, helping run parties, etc. Bid committees face a number of thankless tasks, involving getting up way too early in the morning after having been up much too late the night before. They involve forgoing meals and running around town while everyone else is enjoying the convention in order to have the bid party ready to go when the crowds arrive demanding to be fed and entertained. A large number of people worked very hard on our bid, and I'm grateful to every one of them.

Thanks are also due to everyone who voted for us. By no means everyone could afford to go to Australia to vote in person, and we are especially grateful that so many of you took the trouble to buy supporting memberships and vote by mail.

The bidding process would have been much less fun without our friends from Seattle. It might seem like being unopposed would make life easier, but having friendly competition makes the whole process more enjoyable. We were very sad that they were not able to carry their bid through to the end. However, the "cross-grade" scheme that they suggested to allow their pre-supporters to convert to membership in our bid was a stroke of genius and a wonderful boost for fandom's sense of community. Not to be outdone, our friends from Southern California weighed in with their highly amusing Roswell bid, which greatly enlivened the final year's bidding. In the past some Worldcon races have seen a lot of animosity between bids. I hope that 2002 will have shown that there is a better way to conduct the process.

On the financial side, the bid earned a surplus of approximately $8,500 on gross revenue of about $50,000. All of this money has, of course, been passed along to ConJosé. It is a bit more than we budgeted for, but we took a lot more presupports than we expected near the end, and some of our expenses came in unexpectedly low. Naturally, we're happy that ConJosé will have that $8,500 to spend on putting on a Worldcon. Once we have final financial statements available, we will post them on the ConJosé web site. (If you don't have web access but still want a copy of the accounts, write to me at the ConJosé address and I'll send you a copy.)

So, here we are. It has been a long road, and often a hard one. But it has been made easier by the kind support we have had from many quarters, by the friendliness of our opposition, and of course by the fact that we won. ConJosé is going to be a fine Worldcon. See you in 2002!

VER-NOIR VINGE

From the first, I suspected that there was noir in Vernor. A dark, insidious intellect, lurking beneath the suntan. Of course the smiling, mild-mannered mathematician I met in the mid-1960s seemed of sunny disposition, beaming at me from behind his glasses. But the eyes had a cool distance—which admittedly one sees often in mathematicians.

I met Vernor when we both were working on doctorates at the University of California at San Diego. Odd, I thought, that two beginning sf writers should turn up at the same small grad school. (Yet UCSD has since also produced Ph.D.s David Brin and Stan Robinson, with Greg Bear and Ray Feist lurking about the campus as well. I rather wonder why.) So we talked sf, found that we were similar in many views, despite the fact that Vernor seemed to be more an Analog sort and I was more F&SF. Hard sf, sure, though with some differences of tone.

Yet he lacked the fanatic-artist glaze that one might expect a mathematician writer to have. For most of the profession, a mathematician is a machine for converting caffeine into theorems. We didn't see the cool analytical distance in him fully until True Names, his 1981 groundbreaking depiction of cyberspace — the very first, long before the movies "Tron" and "Blade Runner" (1982) and cyberpunk (1984). Prescient in its view that even virtual worlds will be fields for power games, it told us that Vernor could look dispassionately at even the most gee-whiz ideas.

He proved this again with the Realtime sequence. Then he went one better with A Fire Upon the Deep, winning a Hugo and restoring the prestige of space opera (a term I've never liked; too demeaning).

Vernor is dangerously acute wielding an idea, and he has a lot of them. What would people really do if a stasis field let them travel forward to the future unblemished by age? How much of a Big Deal will we wily humans be on the galactic stage, really?

He's on the Hugo ballot again this year, and his deadly penetrating gaze will probably bring him still more rafts of readers. Maybe it does indeed take a mathematician to think through such ideas as the Singularity — the boundary between Us and a Them so techno-godlike as to defy definition — with grace and craft.

Whatever he does next, hold on tight to your assumptions. They're liable to be blown away.

DAVID CHERRY

In the spring of 1980, I walked into an art show at a small convention near Kansas City and discovered there the paintings of a new artist, David Cherry. At that long ago show, his first, David was showing pictures he'd done to illustrate a book called Ealdwood. He won second place in the art show for a black-and-white piece, and people were asking him for an autograph! To quote David, "Wowee! Zowee!"

At the time, David was a lawyer and his art was just a hobby. But by 1982, he had shut down the law business and was teaching himself how to paint for real. In the summer of 1984, he was discouraged and ready to look for a new line of work when he met James Christensen, professor of art and fantasy master extraordinaire. Just a couple of days talking with Christensen revolutionized his approach to painting and his next piece not only took best of show, but sold for $2500. David knew then he could make a living doing this and has never looked back.

In the 20 years since that auspicious event, I have watched David change and grow as an artist and as a human being. And human beings don't get much better than this: he's kind, loyal, thoughtful, sweet, and has always managed to steam up my glasses when we danced. I'm ever so glad he's my friend.

David has had 11 Hugo nominations (but, alas, no win yet), and has won 8 Chesley Awards, the award given by the artists themselves through ASFA. He has published a book of his artwork which was also nominated for a Hugo, and even a short story in a collection edited by Bill Fawcett and David Drake. Although he still does book covers from time to time, during the 90's most of David's work has been gaming art in one form or another. The future? Look for David's work in the upcoming products from Ensemble Studios, developers of Microsoft's multi award winning PC strategy game "Age Of Empires." David is proud to announce that he has just agreed to become Ensemble's Senior Concept Artist

And ConJosé is proud and honored to have him as our Artist Guest of Honor.

BJO AND JOHN TRIMBLE

John and Bjo Trimble are rare fans in that they have changed the face of fandom significantly not once but twice.

Most people know about Bjo's campaign to save "Star Trek," and the concomitant influx of female fans, the rise of media fandom and the growth of the Trek conventions. That was a major influence on fandom as we know it now. But before that, they created something that we all take for granted.

Without John and Bjo, conventions might not have art shows. Their Project Art Show, and its fanzine "Pas-Tell," changed the way fans look at art. In the early days of fandom, the art at cons was donated by publishers (generally magazine publishers) for auctions to help cover the convention expenses. Since the art shows started, they have become one of the major sources of new professional artists (George Barr, Alicia Austin, Tim Kirk and many more started there) and artists in SF have taken on a great deal more power and respect. Add in their personal support of such artists as George and Alicia, and you'll see the Trimbles put real effort into those they believe in.

And this ignores John's fan writing, Bjo's cartoons and posters, and their other efforts to maintain fandom as a new and exciting place for people to grow. We'll tell you a lot more about them as we move toward the con. For now, know that they will be interesting, intelligent and caring guests, and that we are very proud to honor them.

TAD WILLIAMS

My first encounter with Tad Williams was his appearance as Toastmaster at BayCon '97, a regional SF convention in the San Francisco Bay Area. He worked the room at the Meet the Guests reception like he was born to the job. I found out later that he may as well have been, what with his peripatetic background and time in front of an audience via his radio show experience. But he wasn't Toastmaster just because he doesn't use harsh sibilants when he's speaking into a microphone. He was there because of his skill as a writer as least as much as for his talents as a raconteur. I knew this, so I sought out his books. I wasn't disappointed. His novels depict well-wrought, unique worlds that don't go for the easy solutions far too common in others' works. This pattern was established with his first novel, Tailchaser's Song (1985, DAW), and has continued to this day with his current work, a four-volume series entitled Otherland.

Tad's presence as Toastmaster at ConJosé promises to enhance the weekend for anyone who comes into contact with him. Everyone on the committee is thrilled to have him with us, and we know you will enjoy meeting him and listening to him speak.

FERDINAND FEGHOOT

What is there left to say about this giant of a man, Ferdinand Feghoot? A man whose career and accomplishments have spanned time and space themselves, in an effort to defend humanity in all known universes? Tales of his courage and wit are legend. He has fought such alien threats as the Dallasian, a fur-covered creature carrying a hypodermic in the hand on its head. It was dreaded by humans until Feghoot pointed out it was merely a furry with a syringe on top. And he is skilled in so many areas... who can forget his famous culinary creation, the ground-glass-and-meat dish known as silicon carne? Why, I remember...

Enough of this tomfoolery. Anyone who's been reading science fiction for the past couple of decades knows that Ferdinand Feghoot is the creation of the late Reginald Bretnor, and that he's the hero in a series of shaggy-dog stories, each one ending with a pun strong enough to cause internal hemorrhaging in the unwary reader. The paragraph above has stolen two of these puns from Bretnor's book, The Collected Feghoot, published by Pulphouse in 1992.

Mind you, we're not talking about any old shaggy-dog stories. Ferdinand Feghoot has made a great impression — not unlike a stone dropped from great height — on science fiction fandom. No less authority than The Fillostrated Fan Dictionary lists "feghoot" as "an elaborate story ending in an elaborate pun." Feghoot is well-known both as a hero and as a storytelling style.

ConJosé will be having fun with Feghoot — and Feghoots — during the next couple of years. And so will you. Trust us.

Picture Unavailable Due To... Oh, Heck, He'd Tell It Better Than I Could... ConJosé Membership Installment Plan

The costs to attend a Worldcon keep going up and up as we, the convention planners, have to pay more for facilities and other things necessary to give you the best possible Worldcon experience. In order to offset this, and to put Worldcon attendance within the reach of more people, ConJose is instituting a method by which you can pay for your membership on the installment plan. We've tried to make it as easy as possible for all of us.

1. Buy a supporting membership in ConJose and declare your intention to purchase an installment membership. The supporting membership is $35 and will remain so right up until the convention. Your balance will be the difference between the supporting membership and what an attending membership at the time you bought a supporting membership. If worst comes to worst, and you can't pay the difference, you will still get all publications and the right to nominate and vote on the Hugo Awards and in site selection.

1A. People who already have a supporting membership at the time of this announcement have until September 15, 2000 to declare their intent to use an Installment Plan. The amount you owe will be based on the amount of a full attending membership at the time of declaration.

2. Pay a minimum of 20 dollars per quarter to keep your Installment Plan alive. With all the other things we have to do, we can't send out reminders to everyone so this will be your responsibility. We will try to post reminders in many of the online fora where fans hang out as well as in our written publications. We will also give you a schedule of recommended payment times and amounts at the time you institute your installment plan.

3. Mark your payment clearly as an Installment Payment. Write it on the check and mention it in any correspondence you may enclose. If you make the payment in cash or by check at our table at a con, make sure the person at the table writes "Installment Payment" on the receipt.

4. Make sure you have the full difference paid by the time we set as cutoff for mail memberships. We will not be able to accept installment plan payments at the door. If you are unable to make your payments regularly, we will refund whatever you have paid over the supporting membership price, less 10% of the amount paid above the supporting fee, leaving you as a supporting member. You will be able to upgrade from supporting to attending member at the door should a miracle happen and you find the money to attend at the last minute. The upgrade would be the difference between the supporting membership and the at the door price, as is standard.

If you have questions, you can contact our Comptroller, Mary Kay Kare, at marykay@feministcabal.org.

We hope this helps more people attend what we are sure will be one of the new century's best Worldcons!

Where We'll Be

Look for our representatives at the following conventions:

Rivercon (Louisville, KY, USA) — July 28-30 ConVersions (Calgary, AB, CÁN) — Aug. 11-13 GenCon (Milwaukee, WI, USA) - Aug. 11-13 Lexicon (Oxford, England) — Aug. 18-20 Chicon 2000 (Chicago, IL, USA) – Aug. 31-Sept. 4 Beneluxcon (Maastricht, The Netherlands) — Nov. 17-19 OryCon (Portland, OR, USA) — Nov. 17-19 SMOFCon (Cocoa Beach, FL, USA) — Dec. 1-3 Hogmanay Con (Glasgow, Scotland) — Dec. 29-Jan. 1 2001

List subject to change due to time and timing. Check our website for further updates.

PR 2 Deadlines and Ad Rates

We are planning on putting out PR 2 in November of 2000. If you would like to place an ad, the deadline for reservations will be October 5, and the ad copy deadline is October 15. We are also soliciting artwork for PR 2. If you'd like to submit something, you may contact us at pubs@baycon.org or through the convention's PO Box.

This is the basic ad rate chart for PR 2. Rates are in US dollars, and may be subject to change. If you have any questions about rates not shown here, please let us know. (Note: Semi-Pro is defined in the same way as the Semi-Pro Zine category in the Hugo Awards.)

Size	Fan	Semi-Pro	Pro
1/4 page	$30	60	90
1/2 page	$50	100	150
Full page	$100	1 7 5	250
Inside Cover	$200	275	350

Dealer's Room And Art Show

At this point in time, we do not have any information on dealer's room table or art show flat rates. We will announce them closer to the convention. In the meantime, if you would like us to contact you when they are determined, please let us know by marking the appropriate space on your membership form or e-mailing us at info@conjose.org.

Bid Committee Thank-You

ConJosé would like to make note of and thank the following people whose tireless effort over the time leading up to the vote in Melbourne made this convention possible. Ballot counting was completed in a record 41 minutes

Our Associate Committee (International Agents) were Steve Davies, Giulia de Cesare, Terry Frost, John Mansfield

The people who worked as Honorary Bid Committee members were Pat Diggs and Lisa Hayes.

We'd also like to thank all of the other people who, while not members of the committee, took the time to help us out at the various conventions over the past three years. We wouldn't be here without you!

Site and Hotel Info

The San José McEnery Convention Center contains over 425,000 square feet of function space with 143,000 sq ft of column-free exhibit space divisible into three parts, a 22,000 sq ft ballroom, and up to 30 meeting rooms. There are 12 loading bays with drive-on access to the exhibit space, complete A/V, sound and lighting services, cellular, standard, and ISDN telephony services and fiber-optic and copper cabling providing DS-3 high-speed Internet access

We Want YOU! (To come to Boston in 2004)

Worldcon-proven, fully connected facilities

Our facilities were home to Noreascon 2 in 1980 and Noreascon 3 in 1989, but this time, there's a bonus: the Sheraton Boston Hotel & Towers and the Hynes Convention Center combination will also include the Copley Marriott hotel, providing sufficient hotel rooms, function space, meeting rooms, and exhibit halls for the whole Worldcon: and it's all connected!

Walk from your room in the Marriott or Sheraton to our beautiful convention center in air-conditioned comfort. With more than half a million square feet of meeting and function space in the combined facilities, we can choose the perfect configuration for an easy, comfortable and convenient Worldcon experience.

An exciting, beautiful, historic city

Boston is one of the most beautiful cities in the U.S. Walk the Freedom Trail along sun-dappled sidewalks on tree-lined avenues. Have dinner on a tall ship cruising Boston harbor. Get a true "surf-and-turf" city tour aboard an amphibious vehicle (but you have to quack!). Dine in one of hundreds of nearby restaurants or just grab a snack from a street vendor. See a baseball game. Go on a whale watch. Visit our museums: art museums, the New England Aquarium, the Science Museum, the Children's Museum and dozens of others.

All this and more: Boston is a perfect Worldcon destination.

A dedicated, experienced, creative committee

We believe that any committee holds the Worldcon in trust for all of fandom. A Worldcon should be fun, exciting, innovative, understanding of traditions, diverse, interesting...and YOURS.

Although a majority of our committee is from the Boston area, we have members from north and south. east and west, since we know talent isn't limited by geography. We enjoy running conventions, and our members have worked in every area of con-running, from chairman to gopher, at local and regional fannish gatherings, international cons and at every

Please come and meet us at our parties, coming to a con near you!
