Saturday

- 10:00 am The BECCON book auction, followed by the NOVACON book auction.
- 12:00 pm TOM SHIPPEY -- Talk. "Women in SF: any new ideas? -- Breadth of vision, imaginative flexibility, challenges to orthodoxy, sensitivity and tolerance: that's the kind of thing SF fans claim for SF, especially when they're being pompous. But is there any sign of it when it comes to female characters or sexual themes? Or is it just the same old dull, polarised chavinist/feminist stuff?"
- 1:00 pm RICHARD BURTON from "2000 AD".
- 2:00 pm FILM: Love At First Bite.
- 4:00 pm TOBY ROXBURGH -- with a continuation of last year's talk. "....something on book production showing how books, both hardback and paperback, are actually put together physically; why some formats work and others don't and why some types of presentation seem to make sense in a science fiction context while others do not."

- 5.00 pm Panel discussion -- "Subjective reality and the creative experience (or what we did on our holidays). Lisa Tuttle, Rob Holdstock, and Christopher Evans consider such vital questions as Do Brass Bras Have a Future in Science Fiction?"
- 6.00 pm The Novacon Factor, a game presented by John "they went thata way" Wilkes.
- 8.00 pm The grand BARN DANCE.
- 11.30 pm FILM: Quintet and Time After Time.
