INTERVENTION

THE 1997 UK NATIONAL SF CONVENTION

Theme: Communication

Take part in the UK's major event for everyone interested in SF and share ideas, activities, gossip and fun with hundreds of fellow enthusiasts over the Easter Bank Holiday, 1997.

 28-31 March 1997 Britannia Adelphi Hotel Liverpool UK

Intervention membership is your passport to a lively community with a shared interest in SF - in books, comics, film, TV, music, art. Our theme is, appropriately, Communication. Will pictures replace words? What's lost or gained when a book turns into a film? What do we say at First Contact with aliens? How have global communications changed the world? What is the law in cyberspace? In the congenial atmosphere of one of the most popular SF convention venues in Britain, you'll have plenty of opportunity to participate, with quizzes, games, workshops, and social events, as well as talks, debates and panel items featuring top professional writers, editors, artists and scientists. There'll also be a masquerade, a dealers' room, well-stocked with rare, second-hand and new books, posters, T-shirts, videos, models etc, an art show, films and videos. Run by experienced and enthusiastic volunteers on a non-profit basis, Intervention is dedicated to giving every attendee an Easter weekend to enjoy and remember.
