

Follycon PRESENTS

I-SPY AT THE EASTERCON

You can see lots of exciting things at the Eastercon! When you see one of the things in your Follycon I-Spy at the Eastercon book, be sure to mark it off and score the points. Where we've asked you for names, they all have to be different names.

While you're spotting things around the con, remember that the Innominate newsletter wants your interesting photos, item reviews, artwork, nuggets of scurrilous gossip, and anything else Eastercon members may be interested in. Email them at newsletter@eastercon2017.uk, drop material off at Ops, or hunt them down in their secret mezzanine location.

CooperCon

When you have scored 150 points or more, you can get your very own Follycon 2017 I-Spy badge! Just make sure that an adult has checked your answers and then come to the Follycon desk in the dealers' room.

Finally, for extra credit, tell us something amazing you've seen at Innominate that we didn't think to put in this book:

If you don't know what an I-Spy book is, ask someone significantly older than you and British.

I-Spy at the Eastercon. Back for a second year, with thanks to Innominate and the Mighty Duplicating Engines of Sheffield Hallam University. Come to Follycon next year! Follycon logo by Sue Mason, cover photo by Lil Shepherd. I-Spy is definitely a trademark of somebody who probably wouldn't approve.
