Corflu Glitter Snags Car Rental Discount!

Budget Rent-a-Car is now the official car rental company of Corflu Glitter. Joyce Katz, chairman of the 29th Corflu, made the announcement following brief, amicable negotiations with the well-known rental outfit.

As a result, fans will be able to book their Budget car rental through the Corflu.org web site at the bargain price of $29 per day! (Larger vehicles are also available at a correspondingly higher price.)

The system will be ready in about a week. That will give potential renters plenty of time to reserve a vehicle for use during all or part of your Las Vegas stay. Just click on the "Budget" logo on the site to initiate the reservation process and get the special price. Budget advises that customers will have to show their driver's license and credit card to complete the actual pick-up. Visitors to the U.S. must also show their passports.

This is the climax of an effort that began when several fans wished there was a car rental discount for Corflu. Joyce decided to see if she could make this wish come true. The agreement with Budget is the result.

The Bill Kunkel Memorial Revel

Bill Kunkel Memorial Revel

Friends and acquaintances from many different walks of life will gather at the Launch Pad on Saturday, September 24, to give Bill Kunkel the proper send-off. Many times, prior to his tragic death from a heart attack and fall over the Labor Day weekend, stated that he wanted his friends to celebrate his life, not grieve over his demise.

The Bill Kunkel Memorial Revel, hosted by Arnie and Joyce Katz at the Launch Pad, will be an all-out party with no service, no eulogies and no mawkish sentimentality. Arrive after 7 PM, dress casually and leave when you want.

John Hardin will grill up hamburgers, hot dogs, sausages and chicken, and Joyce promises a lavish, Vegrants-style buffet of side dishes, cold entries, soft drinks and beer. The party will also feature a memory book (to be given to Laurie Kunkel), a oneshot and some of Bill's favorite party music.

If you'd like to say good-bye to this fine fannish writer and cartoonist, contact Joyce (joyceworley1@cox.net). She can answer questions, provide directions to the Launch Pad and discuss contributions of food, beverages and intoxicants.

now posted to YouTube. The finished piece, a fannish song parody of “Down the River to New Orleans” by Gary U.S. Bonds, was definitely worth the wait. Not only is the song lively, good fun, but the clip also features an excellent video montage that’s sure to evoke fannish memories.

Nic Farey composed “Hey, hey, hey, Yeah!” He handles the lead vocal and the instrumental accompaniment. Vegrants Joyce Katz, Don Miller, Jacq Monahan, Tee Cochran, JoHn Hardin, Brenda Dupont and James Taylor all contributed to the clip, too. Give a listen, and take a look, at the clip at: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=iUJOrpt4Bi8>. The clip is labeled “Sunset Station (Take a Trip).”

That’s two tremendous Corflu Glitter songs. Anyone else feel musically inclined to make that three?

If you’ve got a favorite fan artist, send an email to Don Miller (scifiguy666@cox.net) and tell him about it. Our Café Press store hopes to add several more artists in the near future, so now’s the time to give Don your opinion.
