GUEST OF HONOR

It is a Corflu tradition that all con members are worthy of being the Con's Guest of Honor so that is why the GoH's name is drawn from a hat in the Opening Ceremony.

For whatever reason, some members just do not want to be GoH.

Therefore, Corflu 34 is bringing back another Corflu tradition; any attending member who does not want their name put into the hat can pay $20 when they pick up their badge and their name will not be put into the hat.

CORFLU AUCTION

The auction is one of Corflu's traditions and is a tradition we will be continuing.

Traditional recipients of the money raised at these auctions are TAFF, DUFF, and the Corflu where the auction is being held. The recipients of the monies may change between now and the con but I expect that the above two funds and the con will be amongst those receiving the money.

It is usual for con members to bring auction materials with them but it is also usual for those who cannot attend the con to ship auction materials to a recipient in the convention city with said recipient taking the items to the con.

I am willing to receive auction items at my home with the following provisos: all auction items must be sent to arrive no later than Wednesday, April 19; and, if any of the items are not auctioned, I need to know the disposition of these items as I have no space for long-term storage and I doubt that the con will have much (if any) money left over after the con. Also, please indicate where the winning monies are to go.

The reason for the early date is that the UPS, FedEx, and the Post Office usually deliver to my address later in the day and I leave for LASFS on Thursdays and Fridays in the mid-afternoon but I am home all day on the other weekdays. Therefore, as regular mail often gets to me much later than it should, I want to be certain that I have available the early days of the week after the 19th to manage to get any late packages.

My street address: Marty Cantor, 11825 Gilmore Street #105, North Hollywood, CA 91606, USA.
