NEW BESTSELLERS FROM LEGEND

The State of the Nation

Vincent Docherty & Martin Easterbrook

The writing of this article marks the passing of the half way point to the convention itself. It seems as if hardly any time at all has passed since we won the bid in Orlando (although for some of us the process started as far back as 1987), so it is likely that the next 12 months will go by all too quickly.

A great deal of work is being done in preparation for the convention, a fraction of which you will see described inside this PR. That's not what most of you are coming to see of course. You are coming to enjoy yourselves, to meet other SF fans and those working in SF in all its forms, to discuss, to debate, to party, to travel around Glasgow and Scotland, to learn about another culture and its history, and perhaps even to find for yourselves the roots of the myths and legends and of some of the scientific and technological insights that underpin so much of our fantastic literature.

In order to do all this of course we have to provide you with a place to go, a programme, a convention site and information on all the things to do and see in Glasgow and Scotland.

Programme

Watching the programme develop is like being the sorcerer's apprentice – you start the process with a single idea and then watch it multiply beyond recognition. We have more control than poor Mickey Mouse did though (although some wits out there have been known to make the comparison!), so the programme is following a definite plan.

Our main theme of 'The Gathering of the Fannish Clans' is at the centre of the planning and the layout of the site will reflect our wish to bring together as many people as possible. The Fan Fair, in the largest hall of the convention centre, will be the central meeting and social point of the convention for most of the day and will contain spaces to relax, eating and drinking areas, the fan lounge, convention desks and dealers, artists and exhibits. All of these will be connected by our own 'yellow brick road'.

Apart from items arising directly from the work of our honoured guests and those which every Worldcon must by tradition run, we will bring in many items based on Scottish themes, both serious and not so serious. One theme to be explored is 'The 1745', where we think about what would have happened if the battle of Culloden had been won by the Scots. Some 'what-ifs' – there wouldn't have been a Louisiana Purchase and Canada would have stayed French; with the removal of the Calvinist work ethic, would the industrial revolution have happened and would the British Empire have developed in the way it did? Lots of material to think about if you are into alternate histories.

The Gathering of the Fans will also result in people from many different cultures and countries meeting. Building on the increasing internationalism of the world we expect to have more people from more countries than ever before. Glasgow conventions have a very good history of getting different people together and making sure they have a good time. If you've been to one of our bid parties you will know that that is still true!

Getting there and Staying there

In Progress Report 3 we gave some information on how to get to Glasgow and where to stay. With this PR we provide a lot more detail, including the accommodation booking forms for the convention. Note that the bookings will be organised by the Greater Glasgow Tourist Board and Convention Centre, so please read the guidance notes very carefully! Note that the GGTB can be contacted and bookings made by mail and fax only.

We have pre-blocked accommodation at a range of places, from the on-site and other 4 and 5 star hotels, through medium standard hotels to bed & breakfasts, high quality student residences and apartments. Whatever your budget there will be somewhere you can stay.

Many of you will also be thinking of taking tours when you are over, including ancestor searches, visits to special sites in Scotland (or even outside like Portmeiron) and to the Edinburgh Festival and Military Tattoo. We are arranging to have material on these things sent to you directly, but note that our Travel Agent Pat Morgan will also coordinate things if groups of you want to arrange tours together.

We will be keeping a close watch on all the travel and accommodation arrangements as this is an area where any problems can cause major inconvenience to fans coming to the convention. Let us know of anything that happens which you don't like (or do like of course!) so we can take action as quickly as possible.

End Points

We now accept credit cards (Visa & Access/MC in both $US and £ Sterling, and Amex in $US) for all membership and other payments. Contact your local agents or our desks at conventions for details if you wish to pay this way.

The attending rate for the convention will increase significantly after Conadian. You have until 30th September to join at the existing rate of £60 or $95, so do join up or convert before then if you can. We have held this rate since September 1993, which is longer than usual as most Worldcons have an increase mid-way between the preceding ones. Further increases will occur after Easter 1995 and at the door so tell all your friends to join soon!

Finally, we hope to see many of you at this year's Worldcon, Conadian in Winnipeg, where you can join us to celebrate our first programme item at the closing ceremony. Bring your dancing shoes!

Childcare

Oliver Grüter-Andrew

We are continuing to investigate the possibilities of child care at Intersection, and the financial arrangements necessary to provide it. Unfortunately the very strict laws in Scotland regulating child care mean that there are considerably more complications in our case than for most other Worldcons. However Jenny Glover is investigating the situation, and we will decide on a policy very soon. If you are coming to ConAdian, please ask for information at our con desk.

Please note that because of the same laws, the unsupervised movement of children up to a certain age must also be limited. Specifically, all children under the age of twelve must be accompanied by a responsible adult.

Lost and Found

T.R. Smith

The following books have come into our possession after ConFrancisco. Could their owners please get in touch so that we can return them?

- 1 paperback by author with initials W.J.W., autographed, left at the Intersection table at ConFrancisco.
- 1 hardback cookbook about an ethnic cuisine; found in brown paper bag, corner with price cut off of cover, which is maroon with gold and white lettering.

In both instances, I need identifying information before I sent out the item, such as author's name, title, publisher (a combination of the above would be best - this cookbook is really nice).

We want to thank everyone for the support so far, and ask y'all to follow through by voting. We've really appreciated all of your hospitality, and hope to reciprocate in about three years.

The Edinburgh Fringe

Simon Pick

They say that SF fans like weirdness. I wonder.

In Edinburgh every year there's a festival. It is a hugely prestigious event, attracting whatever can be got of the highest cultural achievements in the Arts: the best of opera, ballet and classical recital; theatre of world class; the premiering of new movies which might otherwise lack a suitable platform. As a forum for the expression of and innovation in the high arts it cannot be paralleled within the British Isles.

I am not interested in it.

I am more interested in the phenomenon that disreputably skirts the Edinburgh Festival like a mongrel dog snapping at the heels of a respectable butcher, and that is the famous Edinburgh Fringe. What is the Edinburgh Fringe? It's an incredible patchwork of small-scale theatre, comedy, cabaret and all-round entertainment that has grown up around the festival proper and now attracts more attention than the main event, a sort of performance carnival. It is also absolutely massive, as if our flea-bitten frisky mongrel hound were five times the size of the butcher and in grave danger of swallowing him whole. In hundreds of different venues – no exaggeration this – people set up with entertainment in its most extreme forms, live entertainment not sanitised by TV or the need to recoup big money, but in-yer-face honest theatre, from the simplest and most engaging insights to the wildest and most terrifying expressions of personality; and above all comedy comedy comedy, leering king of the festival, stand-up, sit down, revue, play, theatre. The Edinburgh Fringe is the Mecca of comedy, where everyone competes on an equal footing, the famous and the new and let's be honest the rubbish too, and it's been the launch-pad into the big time of far more rising stars than any of the London comedy clubs or provincial circuits.

For this from all over the nation every two-bit string-and-sawdust theatre company with a show to sell or a cabaret knocked up from inspiration and old rags treks up in their Transit vans, hires a hall for one or two slots a day and simply performs. Instantly the city is covered in posters; indeed I half suspect it's the layered decades of ancient show posters that keep the walls of the older pubs around Edinburgh Rock solid. You cannot walk for street theatre. And you pay your money, what with all that choice not much money, and go and see these things.

And with so much competing for your entertainment, some of the attractions become very weird indeed.

I myself visited Edinburgh Festival Fringe and selected among its pleasures in 1992, when I was half of a two-man comedy revue that played a small venue near the main Fringe offices for a couple of heady weeks in high summer. I cannot say it brought me instant fame.

However, we had many different comedy sketches. In one, I performed levitating tricks. In another I and my friend consumed honey from honey-pots while boasting how many women we knew. This was intended as irony. Later, I recited Shakespeare as he hit me round the chops. From such things is fashioned entertainment.

But for the two weeks I was there I was in the temporary theatre capital of the world. I tramped up and down the city streets, and believe me Edinburgh streets go up and down; I went out early, came back late and rarely saw fewer than three shows a day, in addition to performing in my own; I saw:

- Shakespeare done as it was and should be, all controlled energy and speed; there is more Shakespeare there than you will ever again need in your life
- the incredible, famous Doug Anthony All-stars, with their singing and dancing Satan routines
- an extraordinary show on the history of tea that left me feeling very unwell
- the rock musical Rocket Queen, sending our Majesty to Mars where she belongs
- a more frightening play dissecting child abuse than I ever wish to see again
- some mime

and some of the best and worst plays, all new for the festival, that I will ever see in my life. I did not see the man who claimed his testicles were as big as the moon but no one's life is utterly fulfilled. I stayed up all hours drinking heavy in pubs that don't close at 23:00. (What's a pint of heavy? Oh ho ho.) And I publicised myself singing in the streets and shopping arcades until it almost drove me bananas, and then I watched other people do the same.

Now, I don't know how much longer the Edinburgh Festival Fringe can go on in its present form and still be worth it. It already sees more press attention than is good for its spontaneity, and it is overcrowded. But it is also an opportunity not to be missed. Science fiction is a low-brow slouching disreputable genre, still too full of rough vigour, it seems, for the maiden aunts who govern mainstream literary taste. I do not think that fans will have much trouble fitting in with the Edinburgh Festival Fringe.

[Simon Pick is former Cambridge student who discovered fandom through the University SF Society. He is generally considered to be more fun than you can shake a wet kipper at, and a good writer too.]

[The Edinburgh Festival and Fringe run from 13th August to 2nd September in 1995.]

Did Your Granny Come From Greenwich?

Margaret Draper

Scene: A County Library 'somewhere in England.'

Foreign Visitor: I want to research my family history. My grandfather was from Britain.

Library Assistant (brightly): Yes, sir? Where did he come from?

F.V.: England, I think.

L.A. (less hopefully): Any idea which part of England? The town – the county?

F.V.: No.

L.A. (faint but pursuing): Do you know when he was born?

F.V.: 1890s – early 1900s; some time around then, I guess.

L.A.: Ah. What was his full name?

F.V.: I'm not sure. But (triumphantly) his surname was Hood, and he definitely came from Britain!

This scene, alas, is true: I was the library assistant. There was little I could do to help him, and we parted, equally dissatisfied.

Researching your family history can be fascinating; it can also be extremely frustrating if you don't plan ahead. In this, and the following article, I'd like to make a few suggestions about what you should be doing now if you're intending to research your British ancestry while you're over for the con, and what sources of information may be useful to you when you've arrived.

Firstly, decide which branch or branches of the family tree you want to follow: research always takes longer than you'd expect, and you can't pursue them all. Start with what you know, and work backwards. This sounds obvious, but far too many people are determined that they must be related to somebody famous several generations back (Queen Victoria, Rob Roy, Julius Caesar...) and try to fill in the missing links with guesses and dotted lines. Start with yourself or your immediate family. Write down facts – dates of birth, marriage and death, exact dates to begin with. Write down exact places too.

Next, talk to your relatives, especially the older ones. All right, Great Aunt Maud may bore you rigid, but she may be the only one who still remembers that Grandfather's real name was Egbert, even though everyone called him John. It'll make a helluva difference to your research! Having said that, a word of warning: memories can be fallible, and family legends are often untrue. Double check everything you can, from family papers and any other sources you may have. And write it down, or put it in the computer; after a while you'll have far too many details to remember. If you're serious about research, you'll find plenty of books, charts and programs designed to help family historians. Better still, join a family history society: generally, fellow researchers are glad to give advice and help to a beginner. But avoid the man in the department store – or anyone else – who claims to be able to supply you with "your own family tree" at the touch of a button. His illuminated scrolls can make excellent wall-paper, but he's being economical with the truth. It's a family tree of someone with a similar name, but it probably isn't yours. It may take a good deal of patient research through family deeds and papers, photographs, certificates of birth, marriage and death, wills and probate records, parish registers and maybe local newspapers before you can work your way back to the ancestor, or ancestors, who left Britain for your own country.

Where do you go from there?

Complete shipping lists of emigrants are not readily available in Britain. Unless your ancestor was transported as a convict you probably won't find out much about him that way. You'll do far better to enquire about immigrants entering your own country. But even if you can't find out exactly how or when your ancestor travelled, do try to establish his (or her) full name, age (preferably with date of birth) and above all place of birth. It'll make a great deal of difference if you can find out the exact location. A vague "London", for example, is not a lot of help: London is one of the largest cities in the world, and has been since at least Victorian times. Unless your ancestor had a very unusual name you'll need to know the district, too, to be sure you're following the right trail: did your Granny come from Greenwich? Or was it Camberwell, or the Isle of Dogs? Remember that family legends often place an ancestor in a well-known city or town – Edinburgh, Liverpool, Cardiff or Belfast rather than some small, obscure village nearby. Check the facts from a trustworthy source if you can. And try to find out the county as well as the name of the village or town: there are, for example, around sixty "Miltons" in Britain, and a further ten "Milltowns." A detailed map could be helpful to narrow down the possibilities: if you know your ancestor came from the north, you can save time by eliminating duplicate names from the southern part of Britain.

So – start your research now, and don't forget to pack your notes when you come!

And Now The News From The US...

T.R. Smith

Here it is, summer of 1994, and everyone's thoughts are turning to this year's Worldcon. It's also time to start thinking about Intersection.

For those of you who have decided to come, or are considering it, we urge you to start on your travel plans now. Contact our official travel agent, or your own travel agent, for information on what to see and do.

For citizens of the U.S., we recommend pulling out your passport, if you have one, and making sure it will still be valid next August and September. If not, you should apply for a new one before the end of the year, to make sure you don't have to worry about it next July or, worse yet, August – the busiest month of the year for the Passport Agency!

If you don't have a passport, now is the time to get the form and start work on it. This is not complicated, but it does take from 4 to 6 weeks to get it back, unless it's processed through the New York office, which is perpetually overworked and understaffed.

The first step is to obtain a form DSP-11, available at many Post Offices and Clerks of Court, as well as a regional office of the Passport Agency of the Department of State. If you really can't locate one, write to me at our Post Office Box and I will get one sent to you.

Next, you need 2 passport photos. One is attached to your passport and one is retained for the State Department's records. We recommend that you get them from a place that advertises they do passport photos because there are regulations affecting the size of the photo, the size of your face in that photo, the color of the background... you know, the usual bureaucratic morass of rules. AAA offers members very cheap pictures (sometimes free!), so make a note to call your local chapter if you belong.

For first time applicants, or if your last passport was issued more than 12 years ago or before you turned 18, you will need to present your application in person. Do not sign the DSP-11 if you fit this category. They want to witness your signature when you turn it in. You will also need to bring the following:

1. Proof of citizenship: a certified birth certificate (hospital or religious records of birth are not acceptable) issued by a Registrar of Births at either the local or state/territorial level, naturalization papers, or report of birth abroad from a US Embassy official.

2. Proof of who you are: driver's license, state, student or military id - must contain your signature and a photo or physical description.

3. Your 2 passport photos.

4. Your DSP-11 (unsigned, remember!).

5. A personal check, money order or exact change.

The fee for applying in person (they get you every time you turn around!) is $10. The passport fee is $55 for adults and $30 for children under 18. So adults need $65 each and children need $40 each.

Where to apply? It is faster to go to one of the regional Passport offices: Boston, Chicago, Honolulu, Houston, Los Angeles, Miami, New Orleans, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Seattle, Stamford or Washington DC, Monday through Friday, 9:00 to 4:00. If you do not live near one of these cities or don't feel like waiting in a loooong line, then you may take your application and all the rest to a Clerk of Court or Post Office authorized to accept passport applications. Also check your local directory under Passport Services or the Department of State for phone numbers and listings of where you can go.

Another note on passports - your name as it appears on your passport must match that on your plane tickets. I learned this through personal experience. You may get out of the country without a problem, but the UK end is much more security conscious and they will insist on reticketing you to match what's on the passport. This always happens when you are late getting to the airport, of course.... Either that, or you will need the legal paperwork that shows why your name is different (i.e. marriage certificate or court documentation of a name change). I recommend you get your existing passport amended now, rather than waiting. Submit a DSP-19 with an original or certified copy of your marriage certificate, divorce decree or court ordered name change. The documentation will be returned to you. If you do this in person, they should hand it back to you on the spot.

Current processing time is approximately 4 weeks from the Agency's receipt of your application. Therefore, if you turn it in elsewhere, it will take longer. At least, this is what the Agency estimates. During August it could take longer.

Aside from getting a passport, you don't need to do anything special to go to the UK - no shots, no visas, etc. Also, pets (dogs and cats) should not be taken, since they are subject to a 6 month quarantine. The Brits take rabies very seriously. This quarantine applies to seeing eye and helping hand animals, as well.

Any other questions on travelling to or in the UK should be directed to me, in DC, Pat Morgan (of Morgans Travel and Tours) or sent to the UK address.

See you in Glasgow!

Art Show

Plans are being made!

We are making steady progress with the Art Show, and will have an information pack available towards the end of August.

If you are an artist and would like a copy of the information pack, please write to the Art Show address giving your name, full postal address, and telephone number and/or e-mail address, together with brief details of the kind and amount of work you would prefer to exhibit, and two photocopies of your work or a similar indication. This will help us to plan the layout of the show, and ensure that you get a suitable environment for your work.

If you want to volunteer as a gopher for the Art Show, please let us know! We would be grateful if you would write to the Art Show address giving your name, full postal address, telephone number and/or E-mail address, a brief description of what you would like to do or any specific areas of expertise, and an indication of when or how long you would like to help (e.g. a few hours, a day, during setup, etc). Don't worry, this isn't a commitment written in stone, but it will allow us to start planning.

Please send all Art Show enquiries to:

The Intersection Dealers Room pack may also be of use to you, since it contains full guidelines for importing and re-exporting all forms of goods from artwork to T-shirts. If you would like a copy, please write or telephone to the UK or US office giving your name and address.

The information pack provides prices and general guidance on dealing at Intersection, and on importing goods to the UK, to enable you to decide whether or not you are interested in taking space. More detailed information on importing goods will be published in late November, at which time we can be reasonably confident that rules on importing and VAT will not change. However, it will help us if you get in touch before November so that we can tailor our research to your requirements.

A booking must be made by an attending member or accompanied by payment for at least one attending membership, and requires a deposit of £50 (or $75). Bookings will be confirmed in May 1995, and deposits are fully refundable until 31st May 1995, when final settlement is required.

For dealers who cannot attend the convention, and as a service to our members, we plan to provide space in the Dealers Room for the display of posters, fliers and catalogues. Please send for an information pack, or return the form supplied with it, to take advantage of this service.

We look forward to dealing with you while you deal at Intersection.

Eggcessing Intersection

Cuddles

Planning an event the size of your "average, run of the mill" Worldcon is certainly not an easy task. Ensuring that the event is accessible to those fans who are disabled so that they will be able to have as much fun as the rest of us, won't be exactly a walk in the park either! While most disabled people would prefer to be treated no differently from the fan next door, the fact remains, they do have some very special needs and every effort must be made to provide for them.

That responsibility is my mission briefing for Intersection and my first action was to contact Electrical Eggs. Subsequently, I will be following their guidelines for the recommended "Bare Minimum" and whilst many of you may already be familiar with these, I think it best to give a brief outline, particularly for those who may be attending a Worldcon for the first time.

Electrical Eggs Access System Bare Minimum

- A list of emergency numbers including the nearest Casualty Department (Emergency Room to our friends across the Big Pond), vet's surgery, repair shops for equipment, etc.
- Medical Alert precautions including tagging con badges and registering information for use by paramedics or similar personnel only.
- Priority use of elevators at peak times or allocating an elevator "For Access Use Only."
- Priority room entry and line jumping.
- Priority seating areas "For Access Use Only."
- Identification for people needing help and/or access (H/A's) and their friend/aide.

This system will also benefit any attendee who suddenly finds themselves temporarily "Dis-Abled" just before the convention, as the result of an accident, recent surgery or whatever!

At this time, I cannot guarantee that specialised publications or services such as interpreters, for the Vision-Impaired/Hearing-Impaired can be provided but all requests will be carefully considered. People volunteering to be an H/A aide will be sent information on etiquette and additional training will be provided if necessary at the Access Department briefing(s).

I look forward to hearing from you if you have any queries or require further information. Until then (or 1995), keep well!

Direct contact address: 10 Atlas Road, Springburn, Glasgow G21 4TE. Tel: (+44 41) 558 2862. Text from Bare Minimum Handbook © Electrical Eggs Ltd. Thanks to Samanda Juede, Don Cook and Steve Basten.

The Electrical Eggs Ten Commandments

- 1: Don't Patronise or Pity Us. Our bodies are weak, but there's rarely anything wrong with our minds or our feelings.
- 2: NEVER Grab or Startle Us! Many of us have precarious balance or damaged joints. Don't sneak up behind us and shout "Boo!" either – it's as bad as grabbing and startling.
- 3: If We're In Trouble, Act Quickly! Any problem we can't handle is potentially fatal. If you, personally, can't deal with the problem, shout for someone who can – but do not desert us. Please ask first, though; I may be trying to dance, not having a seizure.
- 4: Don't Play With or Grab At Our Equipment. Wheelchairs aren't go-carts; canes are not toys; Guide dogs and other Companion Animals aren't pets.
- 5: If You Want To Help, Ask. There are specific "protocols" for helping to deal with any "handicap." If we don't need help, we know how to say "No, thank you."
- 6: Don't Call It Special Treatment. What would be Special Privileges for you are barrier-breakers for us; they make it possible for us to be part of the "normal" world.
- 7: Don't Look Away When You Talk To Us, or talk with your hands; that cuts in half your conversation with the deaf or the blind. But Don't Be Afraid Of Words – the dictionary lists many definitions of "see;" only one involves working eyes.
- 8: Don't Spank Children Who Point At Us and Ask Questions! You frighten them, and convince them we're monsters ("Mommy wouldn't scare me if that person was nice."). Idle curiosity is rude only from an adult.
- 9: Don't Assume We're Superhuman just because we're participating in the "normal" world. We tire as easily as the elderly, and would appreciate the same consideration.
- 10: Take Our Problems Seriously, But Allow Us To Be Human. Don't be turned off by our jokes; if we couldn't laugh at our troubles, we'd be rather grim. And please, don't judge us by whiners; there are jerks in every group, including ours.

If you can't remember these rules, use the Golden Rule. Pretend you cannot see, hear, or walk; if you'd find something offensive, don't do or say it. Unless, of course, you like people patting you on the head and shouting "What a pitiful thing you are, poor sweet baby!"

Intersection Programme

Starting From Scratch

Paul Kincaid

There are some things you have to remember when grappling with the Laocoönian coils of a Worldcon programme.

1: This is the public face of the con. Or at least, it's the bit most people will see and remember.

2: You can't please all the people all the time. For heaven's sake, there's going to be thousands of people there, some will read hard sf, some will read fantasy, some will only watch films, some will only be there for the fannish ambience, some will never have been to a convention before, some will have been to every con anyone has ever heard of. What can you do to attract all those people?

3: Anything I say here relates primarily to the literary programme. There have to be references to the rest of this complex entity because we are all working together and there is a hell of a lot of overlap; but when it comes to details it is not for me to say how the rest of the programme is to be constructed.

Okay, so let's accept that the whole thing is impossible to start with. What are we going to do that is attractive, exciting or involving at Intersection?

How is it structured?

There's a lot of programme going on over the long weekend of Worldcon. With so many people and so many varied tastes you have to respond with a wide range of things. So the Worldcon is going to have a literary programme, a science programme, a comics programme, a media programme, a film programme, a games programme, a fan programme, a film programme. But you won't notice any of that. We hope.

You will notice that there are various programme items, that there are discussions, films, talks, displays, and so forth. You may also notice that they touch on one or more of the topics I've listed. But you won't notice that each area is sectioned off. We don't want the literary programme to occupy its own little mini-ghetto within the convention which doesn't touch anything being done on the media programme or the film programme or any of the rest of them.

All those separate channels are developing their own flow of ideas which will come together by the time of the convention into one multi-stream programme where books and comics, science and fandom will feed off each other.

You might – you probably will – find programme items that are purely about books or games or comics. But you will also find that a film relates to what was discussed in a panel before it; that fans, scientists and critics are talking about the same subject on the same stage; that things interconnect.

What will it look like?

There are convention programmes which sit a large number of people behind a desk and leave them to it. We don't intend to follow that pattern.

The problem with having too many people on stage at once is that they don't have time to develop a discussion. It's a showcase for a lot of famous names, but it doesn't achieve anything beyond that. We want to give programme participants a chance to sound off about things that interest, annoy or obsess them. We want to give you the chance to hear interesting and articulate people at their best. So we want to structure the programme in a way that lets that happen.

So instead of rows of talking heads, you will see four people and a moderator, three people in sparkling discussion, two people head-to-head, one person given their head, interviews, debates. We'll vary the format to suit the topic. We'll also be taking that desk away. As at Mexicons – for those of you who are familiar with them – easy chairs and a coffee table create a much more relaxed atmosphere. And it also breaks down the barrier between stage and audience, which gives you a much better opportunity to have your say as well

Who will be taking part?

Any Worldcon has an impressive number of well known people attending – and we will be exploiting that cast list to the full.

The one key to bear in mind is that this is a Worldcon. We don't want to produce just another British convention any more than we want to create a clone of a US Worldcon. So we will be casting our net wide when looking for programme participants. British authors will be an unfamiliar attraction to many American attendees, just as American authors will be exotic to a British audience, and there will be writers from Europe and elsewhere to bring their own perspective on things.

And, of course, it isn't just authors who have interesting and articulate things to say about sf in its many forms. So we will be involving critics, scientists and fans.

So what is going to happen?

Your guess is as good as mine.

Literally.

Like the various people involved in the other strands of programming, we are already drawing up lists of ideas, suggestions, themes.

Baltimore in 1998

The Pirates of Fenzance invite you to join our crew

Baltimore has all the necessary elements to be the paramount (or even universal) choice to be the site for the 1998 World Science Fiction Convention.

The Baltimore Convention Center is a modern world-class facility with over 1.1 million square feet of exhibit space, meeting rooms, and ballrooms located on the Inner Harbor, Baltimore's rejuvenated cultural, leisure, and retail center. There are over 3,300 hotel rooms within three blocks of the Convention Center.

An extensive network of overhead walkways and a six block brick promenade place hundreds of restaurants, shopping opportunities, entertainment activities, and historical sites within walking distance. Baltimore's proximity to Washington, DC and Virginia make it an ideal location for an extended visit.

Our committee was founded by members of the Baltimore Science Fiction Society and the Washington Science Fiction Association. We have decades of experience running Balticons, Disclaves, and three Worldcons.

Join us and help bring the Worldcon to Baltimore. Attend a Pirates of Fenzance party or write for more information.

But above all we want to produce a programme that you will want to see. You can't please all the people all the time, as I said above. But the programme as a whole should be designed to have something for everyone. And so far as possible each item should aim to attract a variety of interests – so long as it can do so without dissipating its impact. The aim is to find a synergy which brings together the literary, media, science, comics, games, films and filking strands so they all contribute to each other.

In the end we want programme items that are exciting to watch and that people continue to argue about in the bar afterwards.

The way to do that is to avoid worn-out formulas and over-familiar themes. We need to find fresh approaches, new perspectives, and programme participants who have something challenging to say (and are prepared to say it). And we need to know what you find interesting, what you feel has been ignored in other conventions, who you want to see talking about particular subjects.

In other words, your ideas on the programme are vital if we are going to produce the sort of programme you want to see.

So send us your ideas.

If there is anything you want to see at Intersection, even if it's only a very rough notion, tell us about it today.

Science Programme Update

Dave Clements

Once again, your heroic Science Programme Junta bravely puts finger to keyboard and tries to impart some information to its public!

First of all, thanks to everyone who has already come forward to participate, but we are, of course, still looking for enthusiastic volunteers and as many interesting ideas as we can get our hands on. If you can help us with either do not hesitate to get in touch via the Con address or the email address given below (which should be right this time, or the editor gets it in the neck...) «It's d.clements@physics.ox.ac.uk - Ed who likes his head just where it is, thank you».

We are delighted to be able to report a number of significant developments in the science program, as well as progress on the foundations of the convention. The big news at this stage is that we're working to secure a major exhibition of Soviet and Russian space hardware for Intersection. This is a large touring exhibition which will be visiting Scotland in 1995, and is obviously of great interest to the many space enthusiasts in fandom. We'll also be having a number of programme items based on the exhibit, including guided tours and panels discussing the history of spaceflight. We are also negotiating for the presence of a Russian cosmonaut along with the exhibition.

In a more fictional mode, one thing we will definitely be running is a First Contact simulation. This will be run by Chris Boyce, who has run similar items at several Scottish cons, and will involve a number of people from CONTACT, the organisation that runs a yearly conference of First Contact discussion and role-play in California. The Intersection version will be designed so that people can play as large or small a role as they want, whilst regular news briefings and reports will be released from the Contact Centre in the Fan Fair.

Detailed background of the Contact game will also form part of the poster papers that will be on show in the Fan Fair. 'Poster papers' are for short contributions, in any area of programming, that can be posted on the wall and read by people at the convention. In the science section, you might want to display an idea you have for an alien, the design of a planet, a new launch vehicle concept – anything that might be of interest to other fans. If you'd like to do a poster, please get in touch with us so that we can reserve you some space.

Finally for this time, some news of one of our collaborators in organising the science programme – the Edinburgh International Science Festival (EISF). Perhaps not as famous as the annual Arts Festival, EISF runs in April of each year and uses many of the same venues as its cousin. In 1994, its sixth year, EISF ran over 200 events, 12 exhibitions and 20 academic conferences. Clearly we'll only be able to bring you a flavour of what this is like, but we'll be bringing you the best of the festival, and are planning our own special scientific extravaganza with the help of EISF. If we're lucky, we might be able to tell you about this in the next PR.

One last thing. We'd like you all to welcome aboard Simon Bradshaw as the fourth member of the Science Programming Junta. Simon is currently learning to drive communications satellites for a living. This means we now have two astronomers, a meteorologist and a space pilot running the science programme! So, with our eyes fixed firmly on the skies, we must bid you farewell until the next PR

Extravaganzas

Gytha North

Planning for the Extravaganzas is going well, but we still need some volunteers in tech, backstage and front of house. Please contact me via the convention address. If you can give me an idea of your areas of experience or expertise it would be helpful.

Most of the Extravaganzas will be taking place in Hall 5 of the SECC, which will seat 3,750 people. The Eurocon awards and some other awards will be in Hall 1.

Diane Duane and Peter Morwood will be Toast Mr & Mrs and will welcome all at the Opening Ceremony on Thursday evening. On Friday we will be presenting a musical/theatrical event, Saturday is the Masquerade – our Mistress of Ceremonies will be Anne Page – Sunday, the Hugo Awards, and finally on Monday the Closing Ceremony. The time for the other award ceremony has not yet been set.

Information packs will be produced for costumers and photographers for the masquerade as soon as the stage and technical layout has been finalised. Application forms will be provided with the next Progress Report.

Filk Programme

Valerie Housden

Since Conspiracy, the 1987 Worldcon held in Brighton, filk has grown from being a minority fannish pastime indulged in by a few to a major force in British fandom, and the Intersection programme will reflect this. The traditional late night circles will still form the backbone of the filk stream, but drawing on our experience gained over six years of British filkcons we are also planning a number of daytime programme items, including concerts in Hall 1 of the SECC, song spots by the many excellent European and North American performers who will be there, panels and workshops, and since filk intersects with every other area of fannish interests, as many items intersecting with other programme streams as is sensible. We would like to hear from active filkers who know they are coming and would like to take part in the programme. Please write to me via the convention address, or by e-mail to: filk95@keris.demon.co.uk

Special Filk Guest

Official Health Warning: This man may make you laugh so much that you fall off your chair.

We are delighted to announce that Bob Kanefsky has accepted our invitation to be the Flying Filk Fund's Special Guest at Intersection. Kanef wrote computer filks while at college for their on-line song book. Then he discovered filk and fandom. The rest, as they say, is history. He is best known for his wickedly evil parodies which he usually gets his victims to perform. The subject matter for his songs ranges from Winnie the Pooh via cats, computers and fandom etc. to the current US space programme. His songs on the latter are, he says, "...every bit as respectful as you would expect from me." We think Kanef will be a really great guest.

Intersection Filkbook

Last call for submissions for the Intersection filkbook!

Yes folks, we still need songs. These do not have to be in English. In fact we welcome songs in other languages – but please enclose an English translation. If your song is to an original tune or to a public domain tune which is probably not known outside your country (e.g. a folk song), please include a music score and/or audio tape.

Send your songs to:

Alternatively you can e-mail your songs to:
filkbook95@keris.demon.co.uk

Remember the deadline for submissions is the end of Conadian. If you miss the deadline (tut-tut!) the filkbook editor, Lissa Allcock might be persuaded to accept a late submission or two, if it is accompanied by a suitable bribe – she is very fond of Oreos! (Don't tell her I said that!)

Membership List

The following pages contain the complete Intersection membership list as of the 5th July 1994. Apologies for the tiny type, but it was the only way that we could fit everyone in! From PR5 onwards we will only be printing updates to this list; new memberships, conversions and so on.

If you can't find yourself on this list or believe your membership details to be different, please check the address label on your PR. The information on the label will be more up to date than the listing below. If there is still a problem, please contact your local agent or convention office. Let us know!

The membership list is printed alphabetically by country, with a few oddities (such as members from Northern Ireland appearing under GB — sorry!). The name printed here is what will appear on your badge, unless you tell us otherwise. Please check that you are on the list, and let us know of any corrections to be made.

There are also visits to Red Dwarf, Babylon 5, Quantum Leap, Blake's 7, and the wonderful worlds of Gerry Anderson.

Each issue contains interviews with the stars and creators of these classic shows, plus there are in-depth episode guides, reviews of all the genre's latest videos and books, extensive news reports, free competitions, plus Fantasy Flashbacks to the best episodes of your favourite series.

Don't miss out - subscribe!

Most back issues costs £1.95 (US $4.50), and Specials £2.95 (US $6.95), plus postage and packing (see above the subs form below).

STAR TREK: THE NEXT GENERATION OFFICIAL POSTER MAGAZINE has full colour throughout, with at least one giant Star Trek poster in every issue and is published every two weeks!

There are in-depth articles on the USS Enterprise, her crew and the worlds of the Next Generation. Each issue covers two tv stories with a full-length synopsis. Additionally, there is a complete cast and credits listing. These build into a comprehensive fact-file on the whole series which can be cut out and filed.

Subscribing provides the ideal way of making sure you don't miss out on any issues, and the rates are listed below. However if you have already missed any issue you can order back issues. They cost £1.00 each plus p.p. Most issues are currently still available!
